

10 Airmen Saved, In Ocean 12 Hours

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Ten wet and weary Navy airmen were plucked unharmed from the tossing Pacific Ocean early today, nearly 12 hours after they had ditched their twin-engine patrol plane.

A massive rescue operation went like clockwork, despite foul weather, darkness, fog and the fliers' position—110 miles off the mouth of the Columbia River. The ten, crammed into a pair of well-outfitted rubber life rafts, were pulled to safety aboard the Coast Guard cutter Yacona from Astoria, Ore. The freighter Olympic Pioneer had reached the scene only moments before and stood by as the men were hauled from the sea at 12:50 a. m., PST.

Hovering above were four Navy and Coast Guard planes, their powerful searchlights cutting through a heavy overcast onto the drama unfolding below.

None Injured

The cutter radioed Coast Guard headquarters here that the airmen, three officers and seven enlisted men, were in good condition but suffering from exposure and exhaustion. None was injured in the ditching or during the tricky transfer from the life rafts to the cutter.

The freighter, which had changed course toward the fliers while en route to the coast to Seattle, was well done from the Coast Guard.

On Routine Patrol

Rescue operations moved into full speed as soon as the P-5M patrol plane radioed an SOS that one of its two engines was afire. The craft, a Marlin, was on a routine coastal patrol from Whidbey Island, Wash., Naval Air Station.

The plane steadily lost altitude as its pilot, Lt. James B. Henson, 27, of Pearcy, Ark., fought desperately to make it to land. Henson finally sent word he had ditched, radioed his position and the craft slipped down.

It remained aloft long enough for the men to clamber aboard the rafts, which are equipped with food, water, radios, flares, radar reflectors, paddles and foul weather canopies.

Seven Answer Call

Seven merchant ships in the general area answered a call for assistance from the Coast Guard. The Olympic Pioneer, closest to the scene, was chosen to head for the downed fliers.

The downed men radioed at one time that they were okay. "We're wet, that's all," they told the aircraft circling above them.

The 10 were identified by officials at the Whidbey Island station as Henson, Lt. (JG) Donald T. McClosky, 26, co-pilot, Belleville, N.J.; Lt. (JG) Walter E. White Jr., 25, navigator, Havertown, Pa.; Chief Aviation Machinist's Mate Jack Bostick, 34, Hoffman, N.C.; Aviation Machinist's Mate 1.C. Clarence R. Hart, 34, San Gabriel, Calif.; Aviation Electronics Technician 2.C. Daniel R. Coleman, 22, Verdale, Minn.; Aviation Electronics Technician 3.C. Billy L. Watson, 28, Chula Vista, Calif.; Aviation Ordnanceman 2.C. Edmond H. Erland, 22, Canby, Ore.; Aviation Airman Ronald J. Eberle, 21, Maple Valley, Wash., and Aviation Structural Mechanic 3.C. Richard V. Coe, 22, Burlington, Wash.

Painter Is Fair

After Fall From Uptown Chimney

A 63-year-old man was injured shortly before 9 a. m. today when he fell approximately 20 feet while painting a chimney at Thomson's Laundry Service Corporation, 243 Clinton Avenue, according to Batrolmen Kenneth Radcliff and Joseph Kivlan.

Police said Orville Bowder, of 111 Green Street, was rushed to Kingston Hospital in a Fatum's ambulance. He was admitted for X-ray examination. The extent of his injuries had not been determined and before noon the hospital reported Bowder's condition as fair.

Bowder was painting the tall smoke stack when a clamp attached to a chair on which the man was sitting, gave way and he fell about 20 feet to the roof of a nearby building. Other workmen went to his aid until the ambulance arrived.

An emergency call was received at Central Fire Station and Engine 3 and Truck 2 from Wiltwyck Station went to the laundry.

Angered By Refusal

The gunman reportedly was angered by the Prime Minister's refusal to go all the way in shedding Western ways in favor of ancient Eastern medical techniques known as "Ayurveda."

Ayurvedic medicine men, who favor hot compresses, massages and secret herb formulas handed down from father to son, have practiced in Ceylon for 2,000 years. In recent years they gained stature as a political power.

Charges Taxes Rob State of Good Men

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — New York State has lost some of its top-flight technical and managerial brainpower to other states because of its high personal income taxes, a General Electric Co. executive said today.

William S. Ginn, a vice president of GE, said more than one engineer who took a job in Florida had told the company he left New York "because he was tired of high taxes and bad business."

"We can't do much about the snow, but there sure is a lot of room for improvement in the personal income tax structure," he said in a prepared speech at the 45th annual meeting of Associated Industries of New York State.

Gov. Rockefeller told the business leaders Friday he needed their help to fill public offices.

"We need your talents and vast experience," the governor said. Rockefeller said businessmen and their employees could help by accepting government appointments, by promoting New York State, by participating in political activities, and by seeking public office.

Ginn said unemployment insurance costs in the state were high because benefits were paid to people who were out of work through no fault of their own.

He said New York was only one of two states in which strikers may collect unemployment insurance.

"This puts the employers in the position of having to finance his own strike and I have yet to meet the employer who thinks this is justified or an inducement to build a new plant in New York," Ginn asserted.

Port Ewen Buses To Start Monday On School Trips

The buses chartered by the Port Ewen Businessmen's Association from Chappies to transport school children will start the scheduled run Monday morning.

For Myron J. Michael and Kingston High School students, a bus will leave Chappies office, Broadway, Port Ewen, at 7:30 a. m. making a pickup at Sleightsburg hill. A bus for parochial school students will start at 8:15 a. m., picking up at West Stout Street, West Main Street, Chappies office, Canal Street, and Sleightsburg hill, all on Broadway, Port Ewen.

Would Restrict Jersey Horses to Contain Sickness

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP) — New York State is attempting to contain an outbreak of sleeping-sickness by restricting the movement of horses into the state from New Jersey.

Health officials in southern New Jersey say one person is known to have died of the disease and nine other deaths there are believed to have been caused by it. The virus is transmitted to horses and humans by mosquitoes.

The State Agriculture Department clamped tight restrictions Friday on the movement of horses from New Jersey into the state.

The department said some horses were being shipped from New Jersey thoroughbred race tracks to Aqueduct and others might be transferred from New Jersey to New York harness tracks.

The Agriculture Department laid down these rules for admission of horses from New Jersey:

1. A certificate of good health from the New Jersey state veterinarian and an examination on arrival by New York veterinarians.

2. Proof of vaccination within the past year against sleeping-sickness, known technically as encephalomyelitis.

3. Fumigation of all vehicles bringing horses into New York State.

4. An immediate report to state racing officials of any horse showing symptoms of sleeping-sickness.

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller arrived in this politically strategic state today for a whirlwind visit that touched off fresh speculation he would run for the Republican nomination for president.

There was widespread belief he was here to sound out opinion on his chances next March in the New Hampshire presidential primary, which will be the first in the nation next year.

No Political Visit: Rocky

If he entered, he would clash with Vice President Richard Nixon, now the leading contender for the party nomination to succeed President Eisenhower.

Rockefeller has laughed off suggestions his trip was political. He has insisted he planned it only to visit with his Dartmouth College classmates and watch a football game here.

But his schedule also included: 1. A news conference at a Con-

Driver Is Held After Wild Chase Patrolman Almost Run Down by Auto

A 22-year-old Syracuse man, who was apprehended early today after a wild police chase through uptown streets, pleaded guilty before City Judge Aaron E. Klein to a charge of reckless driving, a misdemeanor, and was sentenced to the Ulster County jail.

The youth, who police say admitted he tried to out-run the police during the chase because he was "emotionally upset," was identified by Detective Guernsey Burger Jr. and William Slover as James A. Stephens, of Sherraton-Syracuse Inn, Syracuse.

Given 10 Days, Fined

After administering a lecture to the accused youth, Judge Klein sentenced him to jail for 10 days in addition to a $100 fine or 50 days.

The chase began at 3:40 a. m. at Broadway and Downs Street, where authorities say the car driven by Stephens barely missed hitting Patrolman Ernest Bartroff, who went into the street in an attempt to halt the car which was traveling at an excessive speed.

Detectives Burger and Slover took up the chase and later were joined by Patrolmen Richard Scherer, Edward Edwards, John

State Polio Ahead Of 1958 Figure; 6 Cases in County

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The number of polio cases so far this year in the 57 counties outside New York City is about one-fifth of the total before Salk vaccine was introduced.

However, this year's outbreak is running well ahead of the same time last year.

The State Health Department said Friday 24 new polio cases were reported in the week ended Thursday.

This total includes Ulster County's fifth and sixth cases of polio in 1959 reported Wednesday by Ulster County Health Department.

Both are young women 19 and 20 years of age. The 19-year-old, a resident of the Town of Wawarsing, is making a good recovery in a local hospital, and is under treatment for a complicating respiratory illness. The 20-year-old is from the Town of New Paltz, and has been discharged from the hospital. Both were classified as mild, with muscle weakness but no paralysis.

This raised to 207, the number of state cases for the year, compared with 108 in the same period a year ago.

By late September in the years 1951 through 1953, just before Salk vaccine was introduced, the average was 1,073 cases.

Erle and Chautauque counties each reported four new cases. Other reports:

Broome, 3; Nassau, Oneida and Westchester, 2 each; Franklin, Livingston, Monroe, Cattaraugus, Cayuga, Steuben and Tompkins counties, 1 each.

$2,500 Theft Probed in Wawarsing Queen Slain in Auto

Theft of $2,500 in cash of various denominations from a safe in the Colonial Hotel on Route 209, town of Wawarsing, is under investigation by Ellenville state police.

The theft was reported by Philip Kita, proprietor of the hotel, who said he had neglected to lock the safe that night.

The hotel is located between the hamlet of Wawarsing and the village of Kerhonkson.

State police are following a lead but declined to elaborate.

Trooper John Metzger, BCI, working out of the Leeds station, is in charge of the investigation.

Investigation into two recent safe cracking jobs in the area was also continuing today.

Thieves broke into Loughman's Building Supply Corp., Cairo, Wednesday night and pried open a metal cabinet used as a safe, taking about $1,200.

On the night of Sept. 17 the F. L. Russell Corp., Saugerties, was entered, a large safe turned on its back and forced open.

However, the burglars, after working at least three hours, found only petty cash of less than $20. Checks totaling $7,000 were left untouched.

One-Time Capone Henchman

NEW YORK (AP) — Underworld kingpin Anthony (Little Augie) Pisanò, 62, and a married beauty queen were shot to death Friday night in a flashy black Cadillac in a quiet suburban Queens neighborhood.

Carfano, the pudgy prohibition era henchman of Al Capone and long-time buddy of Frank Costello, and Janice Drake, 32, who was married to comedian Allan Drake, were shot from the rear of the gangster's swanky car. In 1943, as Janice Hansen, she won a Palisades Park beauty contest. She was Miss New Jersey of 1941.

Car Moving at Time

The auto, apparently moving at the time, veered onto a curb in the Jackson Heights section of Queens about a half mile from LaGuardia Field.

Neighbors told police they saw two men flee from the car after they heard shots. No weapon was found. Carfano was shot twice in the back of the head and once in his left cheek. Mrs. Drake, the mother of a 13-year-old boy, Michael, was shot in the back of the neck and in the right temple.

Carfano, short and pot-bellied, wore a dark blue silk suit. His pockets were stuffed with money. Mrs. Drake, who was linked with another murder seven years ago, wore a smart blue cocktail dress and a mink stole. Police said there were reports the two had been seen earlier at a hotel near LaGuardia.

Pockets Bulged With Money

Police said two weapons were used—32 and .38 caliber revolvers. Carfano's trousers pockets bulged with $1,500 in 50- and 100-dollar bills and $433 in smaller bills. He was identified from his auto license.

Hess Is Elected Ashton Successor As Electrol Head

A. E. Hess, a retired businessman residing in Mt. Tremper, was elected acting president of Electrol Inc., 85 Grand Street, at a meeting of the board of directors Friday afternoon.

He succeeds Benjamin N. Ashton, who has served as president of the hydraulics firm for the past 14 years.

Election of Hess, formerly a prominent businessman in the Danbury, Conn., area who has been a member of the Electrol board for only six months, reportedly came in a surprise development.

Rumors were rife in the area today following the sudden action of the board.

The Freeman was able to verify the election of Hess, but was advised that a detailed release was being prepared by Maybrook Associates of New York City, a public relations firm, and would not be available until Monday.

A director of Electrol, when queried by The Freeman said, the board's action was taken.

Spenders, Stock Market Show No Effect of Steel Strike

By WALTER BREEDER JR., AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel strike tightened its grips on the economy this week, but Main Street and Wall Street didn't seem to care.

The stock market snapped out of earlier losses in two fast and furious trading sessions. For the time being anyway, the bulls were in command.

On busy Main Streets and in centers, consumers kept on spending with abandon.

Dun & Bradstreet's latest weekly retail survey showed business in the nation's shops and stores up a whopping 7 to 11 per cent over last year when steelworkers were on the job and making money. A prominent banker observed: "This might be called the year of the spender."

But while consumers splurged and bulls roared, the throttling effects of the steel strike were making themselves felt elsewhere.

In Washington, the government's top fiscal experts cautioned that Uncle Sam's budget will be thrown out of whack if the strike drags on much longer.

The government's fiscal year ends next June 30. Expenditures are now estimated at $78,900,000,000—up $1,900,000,000 from what the administration figured just a few months ago. There's still a chance of taking in $78,900,000,000 or a bit more and balancing the budget, fiscal experts said. But, they warned, if the steel strike isn't settled soon, taxes collected from the profits of industry will drop sharply — and Uncle Sam may wind up in the red.

Big General Motors Corp. conceded this week it was feeling the steel pinch but hastened to add that its troubles had been exaggerated.

"We are not in good shape," a spokesman said. "But we aren't ready to close up shop."

Hardest hit of GM's farflung operations were the Columbus, Ohio, and Trenton, N.J., plants of its Ternstedt Division which makes auto body hardware. The Columbus plant is shut down. In the next two weeks, the Trenton plant will lay off 2,700.

Building industry analysts said the steel strike was partly to blame for a sharp drop in dollar volume of construction contracts last month.

John G. Winger, vice president and petroleum economist of the Chase Manhattan Bank, said the steel strike's tangle on industry has curbed petroleum demand.

The railroads started shipping more coal to the strike-bound steel plants — a development interpreted by some observers as signaling a possible end of the strike next month. But as the strike went into its 13rd day, contract negotiations broke down.

"We are going home," said David J. McDonald, the steel union

Power Boat Ball Set for Tonight At Clinton Hotel

Could Lead To Truce On Problem Divided Germany. Today's Big Topic

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower and Soviet Prime Minister Nikita S. Khrushchev today began a problem-by-problem debate of critical cold war issues.

The second round of their historic discussions began in Eisenhower's hideaway on a mountaintop surrounded by low-hanging clouds.

Shrouded by Fog

Meeting in Eisenhower's lodge Aspen at Camp David in Maryland's Catocin Mountains, the two leaders could see only a few yards through the picture window of their conference room.

The critical East-West dispute over the future of West Berlin as well as the broader problem of divided Germany had a high priority on the agenda of the day's session.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev, who began their talks early Friday night after a helicopter flight from Washington to Camp David, met for the first time this morning at the breakfast table and immediately "began their informal conversations."

This start on the day's work—with the world watching for the results to be announced Sunday—was reported to newsmen at the Gettysburg press center by Mrs. Anne Wheaton of the White House press office.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty and Asst. Secretary of State Andrew H. Burney arranged a full report on the morning session around midday.

The Khrushchev-Eisenhower breakfast talk reportedly lasted an hour or less in the living room of Aspen lodge.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrived by automobile at Camp David at 9:45 a. m. EDT, to join in the talks.

The Vice President originally had planned to travel from Washington by helicopter, but had to switch to an automobile because of a heavy fog shrouding Camp David.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev will come to grips at their conference with cold war problems that have kept the world in turmoil and periodically threatened

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

We often think of artists as being moody, egotistical, head-strong geniuses too wrapped up in themselves to ever think of anyone or anything but their work.

But Fra Angelico, the great Renaissance master, was an artist of such consummate humility that he knelt while painting his "Madonna" and wept while he worked on his "Crucifixion."

This simple man of God, who gave up a promising career as a painter of miniatures to enter a Dominican monastery, never lifted his brush without praying for inspiration. The scenes of the life of Christ he painted on the walls of the Monastery of San Marco in Florence are responsible for that building today being regarded as one of the great art-treasures of the world.

Said art critic John Ruskin of this good monk's life work: "He bequeathed to the world the most radiant consummation of the pure ideal of Christianity."

Sunday School Expansion Plan Gets Underway

Joining with Christian and Missionary Alliance Churches across the nation the Kingston Alliance Sunday school launched an attendance increase campaign on Sunday, Sept. 20.

During the next five weeks members will be visiting homes in the community and extending invitations to their Sunday school which meets at 9:45 a. m. at the church on the corner of Franklin and Pine Streets.

The pastor, the Rev. Virgil R. Brisco announced that the national goal for Alliance churches in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico is 155,000 enrolled in 1959. The local Alliance Sunday school has set their goal at 150. Special programs have been planned which will be of interest to all who attend.

The following committees have been appointed to direct this enlargement program. The steering committee includes the pastor and DeForest Shaver, Mrs. Harvey Wright and Douglas Koch. Program committee is directed by Mrs. Evan Lutke assisted by Robert Moore, DeForest Shaver and Evan Lutke. The publicity committee chairman is Robert Moore, assisted by Richard Jones, Miss Beverly Christiana, Mrs. Frank Gannon, Mrs. Eugene O'Dell and Douglas Koch. The transportation committee is directed by Donald Shaver, Mrs. Fred Koch, David Leinhos, Frank Gannon.

Missionary Invasion Committee has Richard Jones as chairman, assisted by Mrs. George Shaver, Mrs. Allan Craig and Mrs. Eugene O'Dell.

Welcoming committee is directed by George Shaver with Virgil Brisco Jr., Ernest O'Dell, Mrs. Donald Shaver as members. The Prayer committee is under the direction of Mrs. Charles Koch assisted by Mrs. DeWitt Deitz, Mrs. Rosalie Pelham, Lila Smith and Mrs. Elizabeth Voelker.

Port Ewen Church To Observe Rally Day on Sunday

This Sunday has been designated Rally Day by the Port Ewen Methodist Church. The program begins at 9 a. m. with the pupils registering for their fall classes in the Sunday school and meeting their new teachers.

All parents of the Sunday school children have been invited to attend. In a special program planned for them, the parents will meet the teachers and leaders in the Sunday school and will look at the new lesson materials.

They will also view the sound filmstrip, "Goals of the Church for Children," which helps parents understand in general what can happen in the Christian growth of children at the various age levels and enables them to see more clearly the roles of the home and the church in guiding this growth.

In the morning worship service, which starts at 10:15 a. m., Richard Winchell, co-superintendent of Sunday school, will speak about what is being done in the Sunday school and the Rev. Carl C. Caskey, pastor, will discuss the ways in which the conference board of education is working to help the local church in its educational task.

Following the addresses, all will join in a service of dedication for the teachers and leaders in the Sunday School this year. Closing the Rally Day events will be the first meeting of the Youth Fellowship 6:30 p. m. The young people will nominate officers for the coming year and discuss possible programs for the months ahead.

Alliance Church Convention Will Begin Thursday

MISS ANN DROPPA

The annual missionary convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Franklin and Pine Streets will begin Thursday, 7:30 p. m., with Miss Ann Droppa as speaker.

The convention will open with a special musical program of missionary hymns and a duet by George Shaver and Mrs. Virgil Brisco.

Miss Droppa who will dress in her native costume will have a display of interesting curios of India. Her address will be illustrated with color slides of the missionary work in India.

Miss Droppa first went to India in 1946 and has completed two terms of service in the Marathi language area. Her principal work was evangelism in Akola City with a population of 100,000 and among the 600 villages of the Akola District.

She reports she found "wonderful opportunities to present the Gospel in the villages of the women and children. During her last term of service Miss Droppa ministered in the Khamgaon Girls' Boarding School in Central India. She served as principal, manager of the boarding students and overseer of the farm.

Her labors in the school were very successful and many children have turned to Christ embracing the truths of the Gospel.

Other Speakers Named

Other speakers during the convention will include the Rev. Oliver Abrams, Friday evening and Sunday morning, speaking concerning the work in the Philippine Islands; and the Rev. George Klein speaking Saturday evening representing the missionary work in Gabon.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance of which the local church is a member, is a world wide missionary organization with 1,142 churches in the home land and Canada, now supporting 832 active missionaries on 22 foreign fields. Last year the per capita giving of the membership was $56.07 per member or a total of over $3,700,000 given to the foreign missionary program.

Each year the churches in the United States and Canada conduct a missionary convention at which time, missionaries home on furlough from various fields present the latest news from the mission stations, show pictures of the progress of the work and present a challenge to the members and friends at home to pray and give the gospel to these lands.

A unique free-will offering by pledges support the large missionary program. During the convention members and friends are presented pledge cards to use in making pledges for this work and payments are made at the convenience of the donor. No one is ever contacted concerning the pledge except to receive a receipt for money given. By these pledges the board of managers in New York City prepares the missionary budget for the year and determines how many new missionaries can be sent to the fields. Last year the local church pledged $3,400 for this program.

The public may attend these services each evening at 7:30 p. m. beginning next Thursday, Oct. 1 through Sunday, Oct. 4.

School 8 P-TA Sets Open House On Tuesday Night

The Parent-Teacher Association of School 8 will hold its annual open house meeting Tuesday, Oct. 27, from 7:45 through 8:15 p. m. so parents may visit. The regular business meeting will follow. John Johnson, food service director, will be guest speaker. Refreshments will be served.

Regular members as well as new members are invited to attend the important meeting.

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL
A CARDINAL LESSON

Life is served up to us in a varied assortment of experiences. Most mortals discover early that things are not always to their liking. Life is not always a bed of roses. It is well to remember that roses grow on thorny bushes; and in life too the thorns are invariably all mixed up with the roses.

There is an old saying to the effect that we have to learn to take the bitter with the sweet. Certainly this is one of life's cardinal lessons. No person ever masters the art of living, in any creative sense, who has not learned that all-important lesson. We have made some significant progress in the great school of life when we grow wise enough not to expect special favors from heaven. God never promised to screen His saints against the bitter—as evidence, the Cross. And probably it would be the worst thing that ever could happen to us if He did.

Ease and comfort, and the ability to avoid everything that smacks of hardship, difficulty, or pain, would never be a character. John Keats has called this world "the vale of soul-making." How much real soul-making would take place if we could dodge all that is suggested by "the bitter?" Certain it is that if that all-important project of the making of a soul nothing plays a more vital role than the things that are hard to do and to bear. Emerson says somewhere that a man "has not learned the lesson of life who does not every day surmount fear." Now fears are unwanted things. They are hard to take. We feel he would much prefer not to have any against which to battle. But if we always felt adequate to meet every situation and never had to face any ordeal with "butterflies in their stomachs"—the kind of character that counts for something that is of eternal importance would never appear on the earth.

Faith is partly the discipline that keeps silent when we feel like complaining. It is the bravery to endure what, if we had it in our power, we would like to change. It is the determination to make something creative and hopeful out of what we wish we had never been called upon to bear.

That person alone has learned the cardinal lesson of life who not only takes the bitter with the sweet; but also keeps sure that, with the help of God, the bitter does not taint the sweet. Robert Louis Stevenson stated it both beautifully and forcefully when he said:

"My body which my dungeon is But Oh, my parks and palaces."

Salvation Army Board Members Hear Reports

The regular monthly meeting of the Salvation Army advisory board was held this week at the Army building on North Front Street, with Vice Chairman James Little presiding.

Oscar V. Newkirk reported on the progress of the Kingston Area Committee of the board of directors and LeRoy Van Brumber on the budget committee meeting held in July.

To Study New Kit

It was suggested that the health and welfare committee meet with Maj. Foster Meitroff to study the advanced kit received for Christmas activities. It was reported that outside groups would again be requested for assistance in dressing dolls for the annual Christmas children's party.

Maj. Meitroff submitted the following report for July and August:

July—15 families applied for assistance of some kind; 16 emergency food orders were issued, as were 150 pieces of clothing, six pieces of furniture, 900 pieces of clothing in kind and 75 pieces of furniture; 74 men and three women applied for transient relief; 85 meals were provided, as were 55 lodgings; 26 pieces of clothing were given; 11 street services held with an attendance of 148; 16 indoor services with an attendance of 477; band and songsters advisory board at home league services held 13 times with attendance of 271; 17 youth activities held with an attendance of 149; five Bible school sessions with attendance of 190.

August—14 families applied for assistance; 16 emergency food orders given; 100 articles of clothing given; 800 pieces of furniture in kind and 50 pieces of furniture; 47 male transients and two female transients provided for; 60 meals provided; 37 lodgings; 12 street services held with attendance of 229; 20 indoor services held with attendance of 639; band, songsters, advisory home league held 15 meetings with attendance of 364; youth activities, 22, with attendance of 508; band engagements, three.

24 Attend Camp

During July a total of 24 young people enjoyed a period at the Salvation Army camp near Wilton.

Miss Nancy Burke was awarded a camp scholarship to the Star Lake Music Camp conducted by the New York Headquarters which features such instructors as Erik Leiden, arranger and composer of the Goldman Band, Edward Carroll, chief musician of the Military Academy at West Point, and Maj. Richard Holz and Capt. Vernon Post of the Salvation Army Headquarters, New York City.

Miss Helen Crispell was chosen as the alternate for the scholarship.

Painting Parson Good for Church Budgets in Maine

By JACK LANNAN

GODDWIN'S MILLS, Maine (AP)—The "Painting Parson" and his family are among the best things that ever happened to church budgets in this New England area.

The Rev. Lloyd N. Osborne, 51-year-old pastor of the Advent Christian Congregation here, specializes in painting religious edifices—inside and out.

"I prefer to work on churches," he says, "they're nearer my profession. I never make any service charge for equipment. It keeps the cost down and they have a hard enough time trying to get along—especially if they're anything like mine."

Started 10 Years Ago
The country minister said he started painting about 10 years ago. It was a natural outgrowth of his building trade experience which includes carpentering and electrical wiring.

Usually, he works with a two man crew, his son, William L. 16, and daughter, Jean, 18. Sometimes a third member of the family, Deborah, 14, joins them. Jean is a sophomore at Berkshire Christian College in Massachusetts. Her brother is a high school student. Both work on a job-by-job basis, climbing the long extension ladders right beside their father.

The Pay Is Good
"I can pay them more than anyone else," he says, "and they're working their way through college. They need money."

Though they specialize in churches, the parson and his family will paint just about anything. They do two churches a summer, usually, and did the same before they came here from Newbury, Vt.

Osborne, who hails from Wareham, Mass., is a graduate of the New England School of Theology and though trained in the Advent Christian discipline makes no distinctions as to sect when painting churches.

Special Services Set at Franklin Street Church

Sunday morning worship service 11 a. m. at the Franklin Street AME Zion Church will be in charge of the parent body of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society in observation of the annual missionary day.

The pastor, the Rev. Horace C. Walser, will deliver the sermon. Assisting at this service will be Mrs. Sadie Bowen, prayer; Mrs. Charles Marable, Scripture reading; Miss Anna S. Van Der Zee, soprano solo.

At the 4 p. m. worship service, Mrs. Horace C. Walser will preside. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Carl C. Caskey, local preacher of the Port Ewen Methodist Church, and the wife of the pastor of that church. The prayer will be offered by Mrs. Robert Hardin. Miss Javan Bryant will read the scripture and Miss Jane Crawford will sing a solo.

Family Sunday at St. Paul's Church

A custom which St. Paul's Lutheran Church has observed for many years known as Family Sunday will be observed Sept. 27.

This combined with youth Sunday will have the following program: Professional Hymn is "Onward Christian Soldiers" by the combined choir. The Matins Service will be used with the responsive reading led by Miss Carol Bahr. F. Scholl Troder will have the prayer followed by the Lord's Prayer. The Scripture lesson will be read by Miss Linda Willard. The primary choir will sing "The Wise Man and the Foolish Man" by Voss, and "Something to Sing About" by Gettmann.

Miss Gloria Jean Colvin will have a hymn story "A Revival, An Accident and a Hymn" which will be followed by the junior choir singing "Stand Up For Jesus" by Webb.

There will be a special selection by five girls entitled "Yesterday, Today, Forever" by Burke, and choruses, Pins and Bibles will be given out by Mrs. Edward Schussler and Mrs. Clara Pritchard.

The offering selection will consist of a trio of the Misses Gloria Jean Colvin, Linda Willard and Carol Bahr who will sing "While He Walks with Me" by Johnson. The pastor will speak briefly on "God's Call For Love." Mrs. Louis Salzmann will be pianist.

Nazarenes to Hold District Meeting

Dr. Hugh C. Benner, Kansas City, Mo., will be the presiding general superintendent for the annual New York district assembly of the Church of the Nazarene to be held in the Paterson, N. J., Nazarene church, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 2-3.

Pastors of 34 district churches will report, representing a total of 1,800 members and a Sunday school enrollment of 4,200.

The Rev. Robert I. Goslaw of Beacon, will give his annual message as district superintendent and outline plans for the 1959-60 year. Officers will be elected.

Pastor of the host church is the Rev. Roger Williams of Paterson.

Among Nazarene churches that will take part are those at Brooklyn, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Yonkers, Beacon, East Rockaway, Flushing, Kingston, Norwalk, Conn., and Paterson, N. J.

Kinderkirk, for children ages 3-7, will be held at 6 p. m. John Sandeen will direct the Kinderkirk. Mrs. Parker Ballantine will present a flannelgraph story, "Moses and Aaron Before Pharaoh." There will be handwork, Bible memory work, a flashlight story, "Safe As Poison," and a missionary story, "Mr. Jeppendar." The mid-week service will be held Wednesday evening, 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sandeen, Garden Circle, Saugerties.

The choir will hold a special rehearsal Thursday evening, 8 p. m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weston King, Timber Lake.

Kingston Jaycees Hear Planning For State Meeting

Arrangements for the New York State Jaycees meeting to be held in Kingston November 6 and 7 were outlined at Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night at Governor Clinton Hotel.

Publicity chairman Jason Goumas reported that 300 circulars of notices and reservations were sent to state headquarters in Albany for mailing to all state locals.

Also reported was the fine performance at Atlantic City by Miss Bonnie Jo Marquis, Miss New York State who was among the 10 finalists and won a $1,000 scholarship as a result of the national talent competitions.

A program to have street house numbers painted on the curbs was discussed. The local chamber also plans to sell maroon and white mums at the opening Kingston High School football game October 9 against New Rochelle.

The evening was topped off with a showing of colored slides taken at the Miss America contest by New York State Pageant Director Guy Visk with a colorful narration by Associate director, Morton Gaylay.

Ernest Rowe presided.

Rondout Valley Adult Education Starts on Monday

Registration for the fall semester of Rondout Valley Central School District's Adult Education program will be held at Marlbletown, Cottickill and Rosendale areas Monday at Marlbletown School and in Kerhonkson and Accord areas on Tuesday at Kerhonkson High School. Registration will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

The following classes will be offered:

Basic and advanced clothing construction; basic drawing and advanced designing; driver training, and preparation for high school equivalency test.

New classes being considered are:

Personal federal tax accounting; public speaking and understanding your child's behavior.

All classes begin October 5 and end December 7.

A registration of not fewer than 16 is required and each class must maintain an average of not fewer than 12 in order for a class to be offered and continued. The only exceptions to this rule are preparation for high school equivalency test and driver training, road sessions only.

If 12 or more are interested in a particular area of instruction not listed, the director, Charles F. Ayasse will be available to discuss the possibility of establishing such a class. He may be reached at Marlbletown Elementary School.

The program is available to anyone 17 years of age or over who is not attending regular high school or private school.

Honey Advice

The flowers from which bees gather nectar largely determine the color, flavor and aroma of honey. If a jar of honey does not have the flower source on the label, the sweet is probably a blend of different floral honeys.

Religious Radio Programs

The following programs of the Christian faith will be broadcast over area stations during the coming week:

WKNY, Sunday, 11 a. m., the Reformed Church of the morning worship service from the Reformed Church of the Comforter, with sermon by the Rev. Patrick Vostello. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 8:55 a. m., Morning Chapel with the Rev. Robert Shellenberger, St. John's Episcopal Church, as the speaker.

WGHQ—Sunday, 11 a. m., service of worship from St. James Methodist Church, with sermon by the Rev. Dr. Kenneth Neal Alexander.

WBAA—Monday through Friday, 9:35 a. m., Morning Devotions with the Rev. Harry Christiana of the Port Ewen Reformed Church as the speaker.

Programs are sponsored by the Kingston Area Ministerial Association.

Instructors Set For Christian Workers School

S. Sam Fraton, dean of the second annual School for Christian Workers, which opens Wednesday 7 p. m. in Fair Street Reformed Church, announced that final details have been settled in schedule and printed materials for the beginning of the instruction to Protestant Church workers which will continue on Wednesdays 7 to 8 p. m. for six weeks, concluding on Nov. 4.

The teaching staff is recruited from local churches. George E. Lowe, retired architect and a lay authority on St. Paul, will teach a course for adults on the Life and Work of Paul. Robert A. Reynolds, manager of voluntary education at IBM and former public school official, will direct a course on The Techniques of Teaching. The Rev. Patrick Vostello, pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, will instruct in a course on Planning and Leading Christian Worship. The Rev. Mr. Vostello is a specialist in this field.

Of special interest to young people of senior high school age is a course to be taught by Mrs. Lewis L. Gillett, a former public school teacher and supervisor and presently chairman of the Board of Christian Education at First Baptist Church. Mrs. Gillett will instruct the young people in the art of planning and conducting worship for the youth groups of Protestant churches.

Mr. Fraton further announced that Mrs. Richard R. Guice, wife of the Methodist pastor at Ashokan, who is a district director in children's work, will teach a course in Teaching Young Children. Mrs. Robert W. Gaines Jr., a member of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church and a former junior high school teacher, presently a resource leader in her own church, will present practical information on Youth Fellowship Groups in the local church. William Eberle, superintendent of the Sunday Church School at Old Dutch Church, will offer a course on Church School Administration.

"The entire curriculum," said Mr. Fraton, "is accredited by the National Council of the Churches of Christ, the voice of the Protestant Churches of this country. Registrations may be made with Mrs. George B. Matthews.

Port Ewen P-TA Urged to Back Bus Referendum

Parents and teachers of the Port Ewen School District were urged to support the proposed transportation referendum by officials of the Town of Esopus at the regular P-TA meeting held Wednesday evening in the school auditorium.

Supervisor Roger Mabie reported on the Town Board's conference with members of the state education department in Albany on Tuesday regarding the local bus transportation problem. Mr. Martin Oberkirch, president, read a copy of a letter from Dr. Henry Eichelmann to the Kingston Board of Education urging consideration of the health and safety of school children now obliged to walk along dangerous highways.

The large assemblage of parents took the opportunity to visit their children's classrooms and meet their teachers prior to the meeting. Principal Robert Graves welcomed the group, introduced members of the school staff, and spoke on matters of school policy.

Movies of the Town of Esopus Festival Week were shown by Reuben Gullian, a member of the anniversary committee, who announced plans for a history of the area to be published in the near future. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The next regular meeting of the Port Ewen P-TA will be held Wednesday, Nov. 18, at the school.

BACK FOR ANOTHER GO AT IT

There are those who think President Charles de Gaulle of France is unrealistic in his dreams of a return to glory for his country. But he has demonstrated many times that there is nothing unrealistic in his approach to the knotty problems France faces.

He has understood all along that the test of his regime under the new French constitution must finally be whether he can find some workable solution in troubled Algeria.

De Gaulle has made many efforts at this, with perhaps some net gain. Only a man of his great prestige in France could attempt some of the bold moves he has undertaken. But the problem remains unsolved, and bloodshed in Algeria continues on a disheartening scale.

Now he has thrust his lance at the dilemma again. He has given Algerians a three-way option — total independence from France, integration with it, or the kind of "community" autonomy enjoyed by members of the British Commonwealth.

This is the first time any French leader has dared to offer outright independence. De Gaulle of course hopes Algeria will not take this course. But he has come to realize that it must be offered if there is ever to be a lasting solution.

The old general is not, however, a soft bargainer. He demands a stiff pre-condition before he will allow the Algerians to make this historic choice.

He wants peace restored to the territory. And he defines it sharply — meaning no more than 200 deaths by murder and ambush must occur in a given year before he will conclude that Algeria is pacified. Some think that today that makes a good average monthly total.

France's friends in America and elsewhere must hail de Gaulle once more for battering hard at his country's thorny issues. He never rests in negative posture. If one thing doesn't work, he tries another. He is a man who believes problems can be solved, and he spends his days looking for answers.

If he should finally find the answer to Algeria, not only France but other free lands would be the beneficiaries. For France has wasted much strength in material and manpower in the, so far, futile effort to suppress the Algerian rebellion. We all need what strength the French could otherwise muster in the great and continuing resistance to Soviet communism.

All the world agrees that Mr. Eisenhower is looking well—and, with a few easily understood exceptions, that he also is doing well.

THE ULTIMATE REASON

The public accepts with little question the idea that it is worthwhile to spend untold effort and a vast fortune on attempts to penetrate outer space. There is widespread excitement about the so-called space race, and little inclination to ask: Why should we be doing this?

It should be noted, however, that some intelligent, well informed men have insistently raised that question. A few of them have even come to the conclusion that the space endeavors represent a kind of mass escapism. They ask why we should be pushing so determinedly toward the stars before we have really begun to resolve some of the most perplexing problems here on our home planet.

Questions of that kind must not be dismissed as sour grapes. They deserve answers based on sober consideration.

Do the military advantages of "conquering" space justify the expenditure of time and money now involved? The answer to that, we believe, is no. Is the need to match or surpass the Soviet Union in this field, if only for the purposes of world propaganda, sufficient to warrant devoting great re-

THE WARM WORLD

If one listens to Khrushchev, nobody is interested in anything but war, making munitions, reaching the Moon and such bizarre and tragic activities. Actually, most people go about their own business, in this country as in his, hardly giving a thought to such great events as this to this country. We do not drop dead at the sight of our own great men, much less at the sight of foreigners, and if Khrushchev is disappointed that our crowds do not cheer him, let him ponder what is there to cheer about?

The other day, perhaps to forget Khrushchev and to return to normal living, I dropped in to see my old friend, Fritz Kreisler, the violinist who brought such happiness to a gayer world when one did not worry too much about wars and politicians and such. Fritz does not see and his hearing is bad but his humor is sustained and his interest in men and events everlasting. And there is his wife, Harriet, who on October 6, will be a cantankerous 90. That is really the way to reach 90, telling all and sundry the full and unmitigated truth about themselves and the world. The Kreislers have been married 58 years and still enjoy each other's company.

Well, it was a little foray into a wholesome world, into something clean and pure and away from the ugliness of that speech before the United Nations which was too smart, too cute, too broad, too useless.

One of the curiosities of the Khrushchev visit occurred at the Mayor's luncheon in New York. Those luncheons are usually opened by a prayer and I have often stood there to listen to Cardinal Spellman pray for the audience or for the great man in whose honor the luncheon was given. Other clergymen of various faiths have given the invocation at such luncheons. However, on this occasion, the prayer was omitted.

Perhaps those who arranged the luncheon felt that it would offend Khrushchev, who is an atheist, if anyone prayed in his presence. But then, it might have offended many Americans not to open the luncheon with prayer. Or it is possible that the Russians asked that prayer be omitted. I could inquire and would be told. It is the guest who in an orderly society, conforms to the habits of the host and it is a poor host, indeed, who casts aside his household gods.

Besides, Khrushchev, in his speeches, is always using the word, God, often in a derogatory way. But then it comes out just as his little peasant stories and homilies come out, because that is the way he was brought up when he was a little boy. "Bog"—it is a word that creeps into Khrushchev's vocabulary. He does not believe in a "Bog"—not he, because he is a scientific socialist, an atheist, a pragmatist who takes his ideas from that trinity, Marx, Engels, Lenin.

But the word, "Bog," meaningful or meaningless, is Khrushchev's, does, somehow, push itself into his language and the poor devil, he can be expelled from the Party for such an impropriety.

The first time I heard him say it, I thought I was mistaken, for Communists pride themselves on having forsaken the superstitions of the past. But it is amazing how the past does hold on to us. I read a piece by J. P. Stafford who is an educator. He objects to what he calls the "woodshed philosophy of pioneer days," that is, the paddling of a young fellow across the buttocks until he recognizes at an early age, that crime does not pay. Stafford says, concerning juvenile delinquents:

"What we need is not to recall all the time-worn arguments, but to get to a co-operative, imaginative approach based on research, investigation, and the intelligent leadership of social and religious groups and government agencies."

We have research, investigation, intelligent leadership, statistics, publications, sociologists and social workers but juvenile crime is on the increase. It is as if a fellow I know who received a telephone call from an alcoholic who said that he did not feel so good. My friend asked him how much the headache cost him. Well, it seems as though the alcoholic went through $60. My friend said:

"That must be a pretty good headache to cost $60. I hope you enjoy it for what it is worth." (Copyright, 1959, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Mature Parent

To Children, Punishment Can Be Evidence of Love

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Punishment can mean love to a child. This is not as distorted an evaluation as it may seem at first glance. A child is often fearful of his own impulses. He feels more secure if he can trust adults to carry out part of the responsibility of directing those impulses. By punishing him the parents indicate their willingness to meet this desire; the punishment becomes evidence of their love.

If punishment is wisely administered, this apparent paradox becomes valid, counteracting the child's opposite deduction that the parents do not love him when they punish.

A child who has had little response from parents except punishment may prefer to be punished rather than ignored.

He may invite punishment in order to believe himself loved, to be noticed. Or punishment may be invited by a child because of unbearable guilt over some act he has committed. Punishment relieves the guilt less painfully than his own self-torture. Or punishment may be a pleasurable experience. Fear of it has created tension. Tension is relieved when the punishment is inflicted.

Other factors, too, may enter into the child's pattern of provoking punishment. The possibilities are sufficient to suggest that parents should not too quickly say that their child was asking for punishment all day so that they finally administered it; and how the child (and the parents, too) seemed to feel better.

Children should sometimes be given what they want; at other times they should be denied it. This generation of parents is slowly recovering from the era in which "reasoning with the child" was advocated. A corollary of this idea was the assumption of the child's mature judgment. We thought that if we talked long enough our reasoning would be absorbed by the child, even though he was not mature enough to comprehend it.

As a result, we lectured and lectured. The child developed a deaf ear to these incomprehensible lectures. When he was old enough to understand, selective deafness persisted—and the parents were defeated. The child often summarizes his own position very succinctly by saying, "I don't listen to my parents. They talk too much."

sources of money and scientific capability to the task? Again, in our opinion, the answer is no.

Yet there is one compelling reason for going ahead with efforts to penetrate the void in which the earth spins like a grain of sand. The fruit of these efforts will be—and to a small extent is already—increased knowledge of the universe about us. These undertakings promise a vast expansion of what man knows of his environment. This has been a hallmark of humanity, this seeking for knowledge. This is the reason for venturing into space. When man quits trying to learn about the limitless reaches of the physical world, he will have come to the beginning of the end.

Washington News

BY JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—That woman reporter who got tossed out of the men's bar at the National Press Club before the Khrushchev luncheon was Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer, veteran free-lance writer.

Thayer herself wrote about the incident in her story of the event, but neglected to mention her own name. What she wrote was:

"An innocent woman reporter, hearing gay noises, penetrates the Members' Bar, unaware of its sanctity. She is immediately ejected."

The way the eyewitnesses tell it, Mrs. Thayer knew darn well where she was going. Tom Horner of the Washington Star, Press Club president last year, spotted her first. Always the southern gentleman, Mr. Horner asked her politely to leave.

President W. H. Lawrence of the New York Times, the more direct type, finished the job. In his own words, he "threw her out," with the admonition to "try to be a lady, if she could."

IF RUSSIA'S Mr. Big and Mrs. Khrushchev had looked under those yards and yards of red plush carpet that were rolled out for them on arrival at Andrews Field, Md., they would have found that a lot of cigarette butts had been swept under it.

The Air Force did a wonderful job of having that carpet clean. A tech sergeant was assigned to sweep it carefully just before the Russian plane landed. The sergeant, with a new broom, got off every speck of lint. But when he came to cigarette butts along the edge of the carpet, he carefully tucked them out of sight—under the rug.

DESPITE THE warm greetings exchanged by Chairman Khrushchev and Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov upon the Kremlin chief's arrival, there's speculation about whether their enthusiasm for each other was only for show. The doubts stem from an incident which occurred on the second day of Mr. K's visit.

Early that morning, Menshikov and two aides were waiting outside the Russian embassy to join Khrushchev on his trip to the Agriculture Department's Research Center at Beltsville, Md. When Mr. K didn't arrive to pick him up at the appointed time, Menshikov began to pace back and forth along the sidewalk.

As the minutes ticked away, the ambassador began to get angry. His face got red, and he started pacing faster. Occasionally he would interrupt his nervous exercising and chew out one of the aides.

After about 15 minutes of these goings-on, Menshikov heaved a sigh of exasperation and stormed back inside the embassy. Khrushchev had gone to Beltsville without him, leaving directly from Blair House, five blocks away, half an hour early.

MOST UNUSUAL dish served at the big windmill that Khrushchev tossed for like at the Russian Embassy was pelma. It's a fish that's caught in the streams of Siberia. A waiter shaved slivers from a 30-inch-long pelma, dipped them in garlic sauce and served them raw to guests.

Russians explain that the dish is always served at their parties as a tribute to Lenin. Reason is that pelma was what the big shot Communist lived on while hiding out from the Czar in pre-revolutionary days.

U. S. UNDERSECRETARY of State C. Douglas Dillon got a raspberry greeting from Khrushchev when they were introduced. "I know you," said Khrushchev with a big smile and another display of his remarkable memory. "I read all your speeches—even when they attack us."

KHRUSHCHEV was strictly on the wagon for his Press Club speech. At the luncheon, he and Foreign Minister Gromyko were served—by request—a tall glass of orange juice and a double pony of brandy. They drank the orange juice instead of water with their meals but passed by the brandy. Interpreter Oleg Troyanovski carefully hid the brandy behind his water glass so it wouldn't show over TV.

THERE WAS one minor but significant omission in Oleg Troyanovski's translation of Khrushchev's Press Club answer on why he was going to China after his American visit. He explained that Oct. 1 was the 10th anniversary of the Chinese Communist revolution. It was like the October revolution of 1917 in Russia.

Actually, the Russian revolution was in October by the old-style Russian calendar, though the date is Nov. 7 under the western calendar. What Troyanovski did not translate was a statement by Khrushchev to the effect of:

"Our October date is so very dear to us that sometimes we believe events in history should be dated from that day for the future."

It could be a significant hint that the Russians want to change the calendar to make 1917 the Year One of the Communist era, ending the Christian era.

FEW PEOPLE noticed it in the rush and crush, but the tickets for the Press Club luncheon for Khrushchev had his name spelled wrong. The first "h" was left out.

Questions -- Answers

Q—Who was our first president to have been a college graduate?

A—John Adams, who was graduated from Harvard College in 1755. He ranked 14th in a class of 24.

Q—Why does ice float in water?

A—When water freezes, it increases its volume by one-eleventh. This means that when 11 cubic inches of water freeze, 12 cubic inches of ice are formed. Thus ice is lighter than water and will float in it.

Q—Can matter be destroyed?

A—It is a generally accepted fact that matter can neither be destroyed nor created. It may be changed, rearranged, adapted in innumerable ways, but this does not involve actual creation or destruction.

New Paltz Area Methodist Notes

Know What's Behind It All?
Crab Grass — That's What

BY FAYE HENLE

Would you hazard a guess at what is preoccupying the attention of some major corporate executives this brilliant Indian summer?

Not Khrushchev or steel. Not tight money or juvenile delinquents. Not the climbing cost of services. It's crab grass.

Crab grass has become a status symbol. Crab grass has become an economic force. The fertilizer business is hitting new highs. Never before have garden tools sold in such volume.

Because of crab grass men may die early. I'm not exaggerating. I've been told of a chap suffering from a coronary whose neighbors insist on taking the responsibility for ridding his lawn of the wildly growing green stuff. It sends his blood pressure up, up, up—says his wife—just watching those go-dooders pecking at his property lest it become a neighborhood blight.

It may be tough convincing a cliff dweller of the true significance of crab grass, but let him go 20 miles outside the city's limits and I think he will understand. He will soon discover that if you allow crab grass to flourish, either you don't know any better or you are terribly, terribly secure.

The majority of suburbanites and exurbanites don't fit either category. The crab grass psychosis has become so deep-rooted that I credit it with the boom in our economy. Further, I think—with a touch of whimsy—we can cite crab grass as being at the root of many of the evils that threaten us.

Crab grass is a motivating factor behind the push for higher wages. We have to live in houses we can barely afford laden with stuff bought on time so that we can enjoy life in an area rife with crab grass.

The anti-crab grass mania robs us of time. We haven't time to teach our children that books are written to be read.

Crab grass removal robs us of time we might spend in government service. Who has the money to hold public office if he is going to live where there is no crab grass?

Where might all this end? If we can convince Khrushchev that we will fight to the finish for the freedom to remove crab grass, the end will justify the cause.

Remember, if it wasn't for this overwhelming preoccupation with crab grass, our economy might never have attained the dizzy heights we now enjoy.

Difference of Opinion

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the nation's chief Lutheran bodies have taken different stands on the needs for elementary and secondary parochial schools. The Augustana Lutheran Church convention went on record against them and urged its 600,000 members to "share as fully as possible in strengthening and improving" tax-supported public schools. The Lutheran Church Missouri Synod convention, however, defended parochial schools as providing "a specifically Christian education which the public school cannot supply."

Local Death Record

John J. Ellsworth

The funeral of John J. Ellsworth, who died Tuesday, was held from his late residence, 59 Catskill Avenue, Friday at 9:00 o'clock, thence to St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered at 9:30 a. m. for the repose of his soul by the Rev. James V. Keating. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir assisted at the organ by Mrs. Frank Rafferty. While he reposed in his home many relatives and friends called. Many floral pieces and numerous spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. Among those who called were Max J. Oppenheimer, assistant superintendent, Kingston Public Works Department and a large delegation from the Ulster County Highway Department. Thursday evening the Rev. William Williams called and led those assembled in the recitation of the Holy Rosary. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, PR, also called and said prayers for the dead. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Keating gave the final blessing. Bearers were Joseph W. Kish, Benjamin F. Gambino, Floyd DeGraw, Martin F. Kelley, John Simmons and Edward Ricks. Honorary bearers were LeRoy Cooper, Thomas Edwards, John Dixon, William Hutten, Fred Wiederman, George Stokes, Edwin Schatzel and William Eselby, all of the Ulster County Highway Department, and Mrs. John J. Reading Is Topic
At Ulster County
P-TA Conference

Dr. George Bond, principal of the New Paltz College Campus School and specialist in the field of reading, addressed 40 representatives of Ulster County P-TA units at their annual fall conference this week on the topic, "Developments in Reading."

Dr. Bond stated there was a new trend now for a measure of quality in education; that it had been found that to go beyond the present school day hours only reaped diminishing return, but for the hours the students are in school, the quality is being enriched.

He said that reading was only one type of communication and from birth a child is first listening, then speaking and then understanding, and "the better he listens, the more he speaks, the richer his understanding," said Dr. Bond, "the greater will be his gains in the next two levels of communication, reading and writing."

Dr. Bond listed three great forces operating today in the field of reading: 1. the vast amount of research that has taken place and is now taking place, 2. the "Why Johnny Can't Read" made educators stand up and be counted, to defend and interpret what they had not shouted about for so long, 3. the dawn of Sputnik took the heat off reading for a time while everyone panicked now about math and science but put a new pressure of how to provide Science reading.

Dr. Bond mentioned some of the problems kindergarten teachers face and must overcome to prepare pupils toward reading readiness. He defended at some length the kindergarten program, dispelling the idea of its being a place where the children learn nothing, by saying the kindergarten teacher studies the children in a broad sense, and the program is complex, planned, not accidental and that the program must consider each child's physical state of health, the differing mental levels and provide varying experiences and while this is going on, this same teacher must provide for his emotional and social growth; she may need to wipe out or change some of the child's patterns, she needs to teach pupils to share, to accept, to respect, to be honest, to have child listen carefully, to speak better. In this connection, Dr. Bond said there has been a rapid expansion of vocabulary, some of this attributed to television, and a few years back a youngster going to first grade used 2500 words as compared to 5000 now.

Dr. Bond said first goal in teaching reading was motivation or the desire to want to read; next, developing a sight vocabulary or a stockpile of words; next, establishing visual imagery. He said that research has proved that the Gestalt method or learning whole words is best for the beginner in reading and phonetics should be avoided until his mental ability is better than when he can do it better because he is already reading a few words and enjoying this experience and because he now is reading by himself more and needs this self-help method.

Dr. Bond concluded by suggesting parents take their children to the library often, give them money occasionally to buy, instead of a toy, a book of his own; he suggested that P-TA's take a hard look at our communities' library services and facilities, to sponsor book fairs and book exchanges.

Mr. Davidson, assistant to Dr. W. Haggerty, president of the college, gave the P-TA representatives a warm welcome in Dr. Haggerty's absence, providing brochures and a map of the campus and inviting everyone to tour the campus, particularly their library of over 70,000 volumes. Mrs. Harold Tannebaum, District P-TA international relations chairman, also wife of Dr. Harold Tannebaum, in her brief remarks about her job, urged parents to accept into their homes as guests for a day, for dinner, for a P-TA meeting, some of the colleges' many students from other countries that each may get to know the others' customs better. For arrangements, O. Lincoln Igo of the New Paltz College should be contacted.

Nixon Joins

Seek New Approach

Agreement on a solution for any one of these bitterly disputed issues, ranging from Berlin to Laos, was ruled out in the course of the brief two-man summit conference. But both men are looking for some new approach to further East-West negotiations.

But the American and Soviet leaders were reported near accord on measures for greater U.S.-Soviet cooperation in several fields of peaceful enterprise, including atomic energy for power production.

Such accords, if actually worked out in the mountain hideaway, could prove to be the first steps toward truce in the cold war. Yet American officials, deeply suspicious of Khrushchev's true aims, refrained from any optimistic forecasts.

Talk Three Hours
The conference began Friday night after Eisenhower and Khrushchev flew to the Catoctin Mountain camp by helicopter from the White House, 65 miles away. Their first talk lasted about three hours.

From this they turned today to debate of the Berlin crisis, disarmament, Laos, and the threat of U.S. bases near the Soviet Union versus the threat of forward Soviet forces in eastern Europe.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who debated with Khrushchev in Moscow during the summer, was summoned by Eisenhower to join today's discussions.

McCone to Take Part
Chairman John A. McCone of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission was expected to take part. He and his Soviet opposite number, V. A. Emel'yanov, have already laid the groundwork for an exchange of information about development of atomic power plants—a potential new venture in Soviet-American cooperation.

Visits of scientists working on the peaceful uses of atomic energy may also be arranged.

Much spade-work is also reported on expanding exchanges of visits between the United States and the Soviet Union by experts in education, industry and medicine.

Could Bring On Session
If Eisenhower and Khrushchev can make any headway at all in their discussions of the critical Berlin dispute, the Camp David meeting may also produce a recommendation to Britain and France that a new meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers on Berlin should be called in the next few months.

The tumult and shouting of Khrushchev's American tour was temporarily suspended about 6 o'clock Friday night when the Soviet Premier stepped across the threshold of Aspen Lodge and into the quiet of its oak paneled living room.

On TV Sunday
He will reappear on the public stage Sunday afternoon, following conclusion of the Camp David talks. He is scheduled to hold an hour-long Washington news conference and make a subsequent hour-long television speech prior to his departure for Moscow Sunday night.

But Khrushchev the traveling quip-maker got in a few last licks before Khrushchev the diplomat took over at Camp David.

As Eisenhower and he stood at the lodge door posing for photographs, Eisenhower said of the busy, crowding photographers: "I'm glad they don't shoot." "It's lucky," Khrushchev rejoined with a chuckle, "that Mr. Garst is not here. If he were he would try to organize this his own way."

The reference was to Roswell Garst, the farmer who was Khrushchev's host near Coon Rapids, Iowa, three days ago. The crush of newsmen on the farm was so great that Garst at one time fought a running battle with kicks and corn stocks against onrushing photographers.

Exchange Pleasantries
"Everything seems to be quiet along this front," said Eisenhower with a grin.

Said Khrushchev: "All the soldiers are peacefully inclined." As the two exchanged these pleasantries, Marine guards stood on each side of them. Scores of others in fatigue uniforms, wearing campaign hats and sidearms, were deployed about the wooded camp and posted at short intervals inside its high steel mesh fence.

Newsmen and photographers, admitted briefly to record the arrival of the two men and their aides and advisers, were tightly confined to a small area in front of Aspen Lodge. The quiet and the hectic scenes which erupted along Khrushchev's swing around the country.

Others in Party
Khrushchev, Eisenhower, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter were quartered in Aspen Lodge where last March Eisenhower conferred with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Others in the party, including Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, were assigned quarters in cabins nearby.

Word of the proceedings at the camp was brought to reporters in White House, 25 miles away, by James C. Haggerty, press secretary, and Assistant Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding.

Haley Is Accused Of Punching His Wife

Accused of punching his wife and knocking her down early today, Edward Haley, 33, a laborer, of 28 Adams Street, was arrested on a third degree assault charge, and in city court he won an adjournment until Monday at 9 a. m.

City Judge Aaron E. Klein disqualified himself and rejudged the case to Special City Judge Arthur Ewig for disposition. Mrs. Janice Haley told police the defendant beat her at their home.

Bail was fixed at $100.

Resident Succumbs
After Fatal Attack

Edward Reis, 72, of 37 Garden Street, died unexpectedly at Kingston Hospital at 5:10 a. m. today, as the result of a seizure he suffered at his home, according to police.

Patrolmen Ernest Bartroff, Edward Edwards and Vincent Eckert went to the Reis home after police received a call that a man was lying on the floor. An ambulance from Fatum's was summoned and Reis was rushed to the hospital shortly before 2:30 a. m.

Police said Reis apparently suffered a stroke.

to this state, which was not on his original schedule for September, brings him here a week ahead of Nixon, who will dedicate a flood-control project in New Hampshire next Saturday.

Rockefeller's official position is that he is not now a candidate for the nomination but might enter the race later.

He has indicated he will announce his decision early next year, after he has submitted his 1960 program to the New York Legislature.

Other Visits Lined Up
The possibility Rockefeller might be a candidate for president arose last November when he defeated Democrat Averell Harriman and won the New York governorship for the Republicans, who were being routed in most other areas.

In addition to the New Hampshire trip, Rockefeller plans appearances in Atlantic City, N. J., and Chicago within the next few weeks.

Hurley Democrats
Name Nussbaum
For Supervisor

G. Alfred Nussbaum, an employee of Rotron Manufacturing Company, Inc., was nominated for the post of supervisor on the Town of Hurley Democratic ticket at a party caucus held Friday night at Hurley Firehouse.

Others nominated were:
Mrs. Dorothy Crantz for town clerk; Joseph Dugan for councilman; Mrs. Elaine Frangello for assessor four years, Mrs. Catherine Izzo for tax collector, and Charles Lockwood Sr., for town highway superintendent.

A committee on vacancies was named to seek candidates for the posts of assessor for two years, and for justice of the peace. Approximately 30 attended.

Police End Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police have closed their investigation into the mystery surrounding Ferenc Iszak, Hungarian refugee leader found dazed Wednesday in Golden Gate Park.

Police Lt. Donald Scott said he found no reason for police action. It was first believed Iszak had been beaten, but Scott said he was convinced no one had assaulted him.

Japan Awaits Typhoon

TOKYO (AP)—Japan battered down today for the biggest storm of the year as typhoon Vera bore down on the industrial area of south central Honshu. Fringes of the 500 mile diameter storm already were sweeping Pacific Coast side of Japan with high winds and heavy rains.

Strike Could Be
Loss of Jobs, AG
To Thruway Men

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Unionized State Thruway employees face the loss of their jobs if they strike, Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz says.

Lefkowitz held in an opinion Friday that Thruway employees were bound by the Condon-Wadlin Act that bars strikes by public employees.

Council 50, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, has threatened to call a strike of its members employed by the Thruway Authority unless the union is recognized as their bargaining agent.

"The Legislature meant precisely what it said when it included persons in the service of a public authority within its definition of public employees who are prohibited from striking," Lefkowitz said in his opinion.

The Condon-Wadlin Act provides that public employees who strike are subject to discharge.

Council 50 claims it represents nearly 500 of approximately 850 toll collectors and maintenance workers on the superhighway.

The union's attempt to recruit members from among state workers is opposed by the State Civil Service Employees Assn., which says its membership includes about 1,200 Thruway employees.

Boy Injured When He Runs Against Auto

Gary Upright, 6, of 14 Brown Avenue, was injured Friday afternoon when he ran against the side of an automobile operated by Jean Dempsey, 32, of 304 East Chester Street.

The woman told police she was driving a car owned by Stanley Dempsey on Ten Broeck Avenue between Downs and O'Neil Streets when she noticed a group of boys playing on the street. Suddenly the Upright boy ran against the side of the vehicle.

He was taken to his home by the driver of the car, who notified police the boy received bruises of the right knee.

Driver Is

Crespiro and Sergeant Julius Glassman. The chase continued through uptown streets and finally police overtook Stephens at St. James and Green Streets.

Ignored Red Lights

During the chase, police said, the Syracuse man, drove through three red lights and a stop sign, traveling at speeds exceeding 60 miles an hour.

As Stephens drove through the construction area on upper Broadway, his car barely missed hitting a police car and another vehicle that was entering Broadway from a side street.

"The proper handling of this case would be to send you to jail," Judge Klein told Stephens. "You could have put some innocent people in the hospital or to their grave. You should be facing at least five other violations for passing red traffic lights and boulevard stop signs."

"This isn't my ordinary manner of driving," Stephens told the judge. "I was emotionally upset about a personal matter."

As Way to Cut Teen Crime

Two Attack Judge's
Plea to Discourage Migration Into N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A Democratic senator from Missouri and Manhattan's borough president have attacked a Brooklyn judge's plea to discourage migration here as a means of cutting down youth crime.

At a Senate subcommittee hearing Thursday, Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz said immigration into New York "from all parts of the country and the Caribbean" should be slowed considerably until the city wiped out its slum-breeding areas.

Leveled at 2 Groups

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.), who conducted the subcommittee hearings on juvenile delinquency, commented Friday: "Of course I don't believe in any restrictive legislation applying to minorities."

Hulan Jack, Negro borough president of Manhattan, termed Leibowitz' proposal "primarily leveled at Puerto Ricans and Negroes," adding:

"This city has always been a haven for minority groups. It would be unfortunate if (they) were singled out by being deprived of the advantages former newcomers enjoyed."

Mahoney Predicts Law

In another aftermath of the two-day Senate hearings, State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney predicted a one-year residency relief law may result from the current wave of youth crime here.

Such a law failed in the last session of the State Legislature. Mahoney, Buffalo Republican, said he was not in favor of extra funds to fight delinquency specifically for New York City.

"New York City's problem is no different from that of any other urban community," he said Friday. "And shouldn't be treated as such. The youth crime problem. Upstate is less publicized but is very serious."

Greater Consistory

The greater consistory of the Reformed Church will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the lounge of the Education Building. This group is composed of all men who have served as elder or deacon on the consistory, a body of laymen, elected by the membership of the church, who comprise the governing body of the Reformed Church here.

Present consistory members are:

Elders Robert Carvey, Virgil DeWitt, Richard Jones, Fred Dressel, John Jackson, Richard Parker, Pieter Linters and Eric Winkley.

Deacons, Richard Corwin, Harry Cornwell, Robert Hart, Richard Culver, Ashton Hart, Richard Hasbrouck, Malcolm Taylor and David Lent.

The purpose of the meeting next Tuesday is to bring the greater consistory up-to-date on the activities of the church and to hold an open forum on the opportunities and problems which face the church in the growing ever-changing community.

Floor May Be Cause of Tilt

In just about every home you can find at least one table and one chair that rocks back and forth as if all the legs were of different lengths. This is strange because people who make furniture try to get the legs all the same length and usually they are successful. In most cases, when a piece of furniture tilts the trouble is not with the legs but with the floor. If the floor is slightly uneven, it's going to make the piece of furniture act as if the legs were uneven. That's why it's never wise to rush ahead with a saw and start snipping off the ends of the legs in an effort to make the piece of furniture sit level. And if the floor is the cause of the trouble, and you do trim off the legs so that the piece sits evenly, it won't sit evenly when you move the piece of furniture to some other part of the floor that might be perfectly level or uneven in a different way than the area where the furniture was originally.

If you are troubled with tilting furniture because of uneven floors your best bet is to install some of these adjustable casters or blades to the ends of the legs. These will allow you to adjust matters so that the piece fits perfectly even and when it's moved to some other area, the casters can be readjusted to suit some other area, the casters can be readjusted to suit present requirements. Another trick is to take a small piece of waxpaper and put it on the floor under each leg and then put a wad of plastic wood on the end of the leg. Press down on the chair or table until you've got it perfectly level and the wax is hard. Trim off the excess plastic wood and remove the waxpaper. Stain the plastic wood to match the finish on the legs and you're all set.

Presenting a cozy, "ground-hugging" appearance, "The Whitney," presented today by the Home of the Week Plan Service, is a comfortably modern six-room house.

Measuring 54 by 28 feet, the house has a cubage of 28,800 feet. Garage cubage is 3,900 feet. You'll need about an 80-foot lot on which to build this house and attached garage. And, you can build on flat or sloping land with equally successful results.

suits.

Low-Pitched Roof

The low-pitched roof adds greatly to the exterior appeal of this house. To accentuate this architectural feature even more, the application of multi-colored roofing is suggested.

If you need three bedrooms for your family, you can fill this need in the house design offered today. Two bedrooms are located in the right wing of the house. The third room—which can be used as a den or guest room if you prefer—is located at the front of the house.

Bathroom and Lavatory

Both a bathroom and a lavatory are included in this plan. And, if you decide to use the optional room as a guest room, you'll especially appreciate the fact that the lavatory opens directly off this room.

Located at the corner of the house the living room is spacious and pleasant. Doors are so placed that it is not necessary to walk through the center of the room to get from one part of the house to another. And, since there is also a dining room in the house, the living room can be used primarily as a family gathering spot.

Modern Kitchen

In the well-planned, completely modern kitchen there is a comfortable breakfast nook. Stairs to the basement lead down near the kitchen. The service entrance is conveniently located, too.

Both the heating plant and the laundry should be placed in the basement. The former should be located under the living room; the latter under the kitchen bath.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. Address requests to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. KF, 87 Weybosset Street, Providence, R. I.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

By

Charles L. Culver, NYS Veterans Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, and John B. Tyler, Director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

Civil Service—Another series of examinations for titles in the New York State Civil Service will be held on November 21, 1959. Applications for these titles must be filed by October 19, 1959.

Scholarships—October 3, 1959 is the deadline to apply for 100 NYS $450 a year scholarships which may be used at any approved college located within the state. To qualify a candidate must be the child of a deceased or disabled veteran who (1) served in the U. S. armed forces in WW I, WW II or between July 25, 1950 and July 27 1953 and (2) was a resident of NYS when he entered active service. October 14, 1959 is the date of the scholarship examination. Applications must be sent to the Bureau of Examinations and Testing, State Education Department, Albany 1, New York.

Education—Service with the U. S. armed forces in Russia between April 6, 1917 and April 1, 1920 is now considered eligible war service for purposes of the War Orphans' Educational Assistance Act. Therefore, if a service-man's or veteran's death is attributable to such service in Russia his child would be able to apply for VA educational assistance. Before this ruling eligibility for children of deceased WW I veterans was limited to the service veterans performed between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918. The WOEAA provides educational assistance beyond high school to a child who lost a parent from causes which can be based on military service. The educational aid granted by the government follows a pattern similar to the World War 2 and Korean GI bill educational provisions.

Insurance—There is no longer free insurance coverage for U. S. armed forces personnel on active military or naval duty. Free insurance coverage was stopped by the Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivor Benefits Act of 1956. Before this act was passed, armed forces personnel who entered the service on or after June 27, 1950 were automatically granted $10,000 free indemnity coverage. This free insurance ended December 31, 1956.

Voting—Military ballots for the forthcoming November elections must be mailed in time to reach Albany, N. Y. on or before October 22, 1959. Application forms for military ballots are available from the voting officer at armed forces installations; the Division for Servicemen's Voting, Secretary of State, Albany 1, New York; the Board of Elections of the home county of a serviceman and his family; and this office. Also eligible for military ballot are a spouse, parent or child of a serviceman who are with him at his place of military duty. They may apply for military ballots in the same way as a serviceman.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the NYS Division of Veterans Affairs office and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, New York or at one of the Branch Offices at Ellenville, Highland, Saugerties or Kerhonkson.

Course in Home Building, Remodeling

"Planning Your New Home" is a course to be given at the Kingston High School in the adult education program. Hubert Hodarath, director of adult education, reports this is the second year for this popular course which is offered to all adults who are interested in home building or remodeling.

There will be classes in architecture, kitchen planning, general contracting, heating and plumbing, wiring and lighting, landscaping, interior decorating, financing and other subjects which the group may request. Qualified leaders have been secured to conduct these sessions. Those attending are encouraged to bring to these meetings their home building problems which will be discussed in the question and answer part of the meeting.

John McCullough will be the co-ordinator of this group. Registration may be made at the High School Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

Dock Talks Collapse

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations for a new waterfront labor contract have been suspended after the International Longshoremen's Assn. ordered its members not to check cargo on or off piers during the weekend.

The New York Shipping Assn., which represents waterfront employers from Maine to Virginia, suspended talks Friday. The old contracts expire at midnight on Wednesday.

Protestant Celibacy

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Dr. James T. Cleland, dean of the Duke University chapel, has suggested that Protestant churches think seriously about encouraging an unmarried clergy. One of the arguments used in favor of Protestant celibacy is that married ministers often are faced with the choice of neglecting either their homes or their jobs.

matter of FACT

About 2,000 years ago, Hero, a Greek philosopher, made the first steam engine, which was, however, too small to do any work. In 1705, Thomas Newcomen, an Englishman, invented a practical steam engine which was used to pump water out of coal mines. Newcomen's machine used too much fuel and lacked power. The metal parts could not be made to fit closely together and there were many leaks where steam could escape.

Power Sanding Eases Refinishing

Underneath the chipped surface of dilapidated-looking old furniture frequently is expensive, solidly-assembled wood that makes unmatched antique pieces when given thorough refinishing.

Such furniture can be put into priceless condition at little cost with the aid of a portable electric sander, the sanding attachment of an electric drill or polisher, and the correct tone of lacquer or shellac.

Do-it-yourself experts of Thor suggest that there's no muscle-work to the refinishing job using power equipment. After using paint or varnish remover to get rid of the old covering, fill any gashes or mars with plastic wood or shavings of the same type of wood as the furniture.

Then sand all surfaces with an electric sander or sander attachment. Between coats of lacquer or shellac, you may want to do more light sanding with the electric sander. Then, after the final coat, wax can be buffed on with the polishing pad of the sander or drill or with an electric polisher.

Remove All Wax

Good painters know that nothing is to be gained by putting a coat of paint over a waxed surface. All wax must be carefully removed with turpentine or one of the products prepared especially for this purpose. Use clean rags to remove any traces which remain. With this precaution your paint job will be a success.

Rhoda Circle Agenda Reviewed at Meeting

"RHODA" Circle of the W.G.C.S., Mrs. Edward Coles, Leader, Marbletown Reformed Church, met at the home of Mrs. Edward Muller of Stone Ridge, on Wednesday, Sept. 16, with Mrs. Robert Shumate and Mrs. Norman Wilson as co-hostesses. The meeting was opened with devotions led by Mrs. Anton Schreiner and assisted by Mrs.

Edward Green in the absence of Mrs. Derringer. Study topic for the evening was "The Working Spirit." The November meeting study will be led by Mrs. Robert Shumate, Mrs. Norman Wilson, Mrs. Robert Clementz and Mrs. Edward Green.

On Saturday, Sept. 19, the W.G.C.S. sponsored the "Pie Booth" at the Country Fair Day held in Stone Ridge on the Liberty grounds in connection with New York's Year of History celebration. It was a successful day with all Guild members participating.

Mrs. Coles presented a slate of coming events which includes the following: Saturday, Oct. 3, from 2 to 5 p. m., the Flower Committee Silver Tea held at the home of Mrs. Francis Davenport, Stone Ridge. This is a yearly event sponsored by the committee and an invitation is extended to all women of the community and county to attend. There will be numerous floral arrangements from which one can get many ideas and the committee has worked extremely hard in getting together many articles for fall floral arrangements that one may purchase at this time.

On October 7 at the Marbletown Reformed Church, the Guild will hold its general meeting. This will be a general meeting for all Guild members as there will be an election of officers for the coming year. Also, as guests that evening, the club will have several Indians from the Domestic Mission Fields. It is also requested that on this date all gifts are to be turned in for the Sinking Valley Reformed Church Mission. Those members of the Guild who have missed recent meetings and do not know of this project are urgently requested to contact the circle leader to learn what is most needed at Sinking Valley.

Mrs. Stanley Roosa of Stone Ridge was welcomed as a new member of Rhoda Circle.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Shumate and Mrs. Norman Wilson assisted by Mrs. Edward Muller to the following: the Mmes. Edward Coles, William Brownlie, Herbert Siemer, William Pratt, Charles Dedrick, Robert Kelder, Anton Schreiner, Edward Green, Garton Wager, Roy Webber, Charles Hasbrouck, Robert Clementz, George Jackson, Stanley Roosa, Miss Edythe Newkirk and Miss Helen Newkirk.

The November meeting of Rhoda Circle will be held at the home of Mrs. William Pratt on November 10.

Exchanged Vows Today Before High Mass At St. Mary's; Wears Ivory Silk Satin

Exchanging nuptial vows today before a High Mass celebrated at noon in St. Mary's Church, this city, were Miss Alice Mary Ambrose and John Derschug Nelligan.

The Papal blessing was read by the Rev. Raymond Kennedy, S. J. of Le Moyne College, Syracuse, celebrant of the Mass and officiating clergyman. Singing during the Mass was the Jesuit choir from St. Andrew's Novitiate, Poughkeepsie.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ambrose of 23 Hasbrouck Place. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. H. Paul Nelligan of 1637 James Street, Syracuse, and the late H. Paul Nelligan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of ivory silk satin, terminating in a cathedral train. She wore a princess veil of heirloom lace arranged mantilla style and carried orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Joan Ambrose was honor attendant for her sister. Bridesmaids were Joan Nelligan, sister of the bridegroom, Phebe Rohan of Poughkeepsie, Nongun Amranda of Bangkok, Thailand, Helen Higginbotham of New York City and Patricia Van Kirk of Paterson, N. J.

James Edward Nelligan, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Theodore Weinheimer Jr., of Fayetteville, Thomas Dolan and Daniel Kernan of Syracuse, Gregory Yoh of Ithaca, and Richard Nelligan of Washington, D. C., uncle of the bridegroom.

A reception followed at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

ASKING ANOTHER TO CHANGE SEATS

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend and I took a day-long bus trip just recently. The seats on the bus were not reserved. We arrived rather late and there were no double seats left, so we had to take two single seats one behind the other. After we made our first stop, I asked the man who was seated next to me (he was alone) if he would mind changing seats with my friend so that we could sit together, which he did. I overheard a woman in the bus say that she thought I had a lot of nerve asking him to change his seat. Will you please tell me if such a request was out of order?

Answer: No, your request was quite proper because if the man did not wish to change seats he could easily have answered that he was sorry, but he much preferred keeping his seat by the window.

The Bridegroom's Parents Are Interested

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm marrying a man whose family lives out of town. Should I mail his mother and father an engraved invitation or is that too impersonal? I do know from my fiancé that they are coming to the wedding.

Answer: You should send them an engraved invitation because they are interested in seeing it, and you should also write a personal note with it saying that you are sending the invitation just so they may see what they look like, and that you are looking forward to having them with you on your wedding day.

Showing One's Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct to say "hello" when going into a house of mourning, and also to shake hands and even kiss the mourners?

Answer: The word "hello" is not the right one, but a warm handshake is essential, or to a dear friend a loving kiss and some such phrase as, "I'm so deeply sorry" or just, "Dear Mary, is there any way I can be of use to you?"

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would

Helen Bellswinger Weds Donald Kiwus

Exchanging nuptial vows Saturday, Sept. 19, before a high Mass at St. Joseph's Church were Helen Mary Bellswinger and Donald Paul Kiwus. The Papal Blessing was read.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Bellswinger of 167 Fair Street. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiwus of 14 South Wall Street. The Rev. John Simmons of St. Mary's Church, Marlboro, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Frank Rafferty was the organist and Mrs. Gerard Geuss was soloist. Selections included the "Ave Maria," "Mother Be- loved," and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

White gladioli and white roses decorated the church for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her uncle, John Belschwender, the bride was attired in a floor length white gown featuring pointed sleeves and embroidered pearl accents. Her fingertip veil fell from a Queen's crown. She carried a white satin covered prayer book with white roses and ivy.

Mrs. Francis Von Stetina of Latham, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown in opera green styled with a fitted bodice and matching hat and shoes. She carried a cascade of decorative mums with fall foliage.

The bride's cousin, Nancy Gail Fraser of Albany was the bridesmaid. She wore a mint green floor length gown styled with a fitted bodice with matching hat and shoes. She also carried a cascade of decorative mums with fall foliage.

Frank Robert Kiwus of 14 South Wall Street was best man for his brother. Ushers were Richard Meyer and John Spino.

A reception was given at The Flamingo, Saugerties Road, for more than 100 guests.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and State University Teachers College at Plattsburgh. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Phi Sorority and is now on the nursing staff of University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and Union College Schenectady. He is a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity and holds a masters degree from Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H. He is now a graduate student of physics at University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa.

For her wedding trip to Maine, the bride wore a black suit of pure silk with a fitted jacket.

Mr. and Mrs. Kiwus will be at home at 4729 Hazel Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa.

St. Mary's Church Is Scene of Wedding For Sheila Partlan and Walter F. Meyer

Miss Sheila Helen Partlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Partlan of 231 Catherine Street, wed Walter Francis Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warion of 124 Newkirk Avenue, Saturday, Sept. 19, at St. Mary's Church, this city.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony which took place before a Nuptial Mass at noon.

Theodore Riccobono was organist and Martin Kelly Sr., soloist.

White gladioli decorated the church for the occasion. The pews were marked with white ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of satin faced peau de soie fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and scooped neckline outlined with Alencon lace. The full skirt terminated in a chapel length circular train.

The imported English illusion veil was shirred to a crown of waxed orange blossoms. The bride carried white roses, stephanotis and orchids.

Mrs. Joseph Primo of Lisa Lane, Kingston, was the matron of honor. She wore a gown of royal blue taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice and a portrait neckline. The full skirt was floor length and featured a brush train. She wore a matching headpiece of velveteen and pearls with a circular tulle flirtation veil. Mrs. Primo carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses with pink ribbon.

Best man for the bridegroom was Steve Cea of Murray Street, this city. Ushering were John Howard of Hurley and Bernard

Howard of Boiceville.

More than 90 guests were entertained at a reception given in the Capri Restaurant, Port Ewen.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and is employed by IBM. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed by the U.S. Post Office, Central Branch, this city. He is also a member of the U. S. Army Reserve.

Chemical Society To Hear Address Of Dr. Dunning

Mid-Hudson Section of the American Chemical Society will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, Oct. 1, at 8:15 p. m. at the Texaco Research Center, Beacon, in observance of National Science Youth Month.

Professor John R. Dunning, dean of the faculty of engineering at Columbia University, will speak on "The Scientist in the Space Age."

Dr. Dunning and his colleagues have made many contributions in the field of nuclear physics. Most important among these are the following: pioneered the first neutron experiments in U. S., beginning in 1932; directed development of first Columbia University Cyclotron, 1936; demonstrated first uranium fission with nuclear energy release in U. S., 1939; initiated the development of the gas diffusion system which is now responsible for major U. S. production of U-235, 1939-40.

Dr. Dunning received the Medal of Merit, a Presidential Citation in 1946, and the Stevens Award from Stevens Institute of Technology in 1958. He is a recipient of six honorary degrees from American colleges and universities.

The lecture, which is open to the general public, should be of interest to students who are planning for a career in science or in science teaching.

Showers - Murphy Wedding Is Announced; Bride Wears Chantilly Lace-Taffeta Gown

Miss Martha E. Showers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Showers of 110 Greenkill Avenue, wed Cpl. Christopher W. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Murphy of Kingston, in a double ring ceremony Saturday, Sept. 19, at 11 a. m. at St. Joseph's Church, this city.

The Rev. Joseph G. McIntyre of Holy Name of Jesus Church, Kingston, officiated. Robert Gallo was soloist and Mrs. Frank Rafferty, organist.

White gladioli decorated the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a Chantilly lace gown styled with a back butterfly bow, a taffeta and lace skirt and a tiara of pearls which held her fingertip veil. She carried white orchids on a lace covered prayer book.

The bride's sister, Julia Showers of 110 Greenkill Avenue, served as maid of honor. She wore an apple red Chantilly lace and satin dress and carried white chrysanthemums with pale pink roses.

Attired in gowns styled identically to that worn by the maid of honor were the attendants: Miss Jean Van Hoesen of 104 Franklin Street and Mrs. Robert M. Fisher of 22 Robinson Avenue, Newburgh. They carried white chrysanthemums.

Thomas Dederick of Kingston was best man. Ushering were Thomas A. Seche, 231 Elmenhorff Street, and Robert M. Fisher of 72 Robinson Avenue, Newburgh.

More than 100 guests were entertained at a reception given in The Alpine, Rosendale.

The bride was graduated from Academy of St. Ursula with the class of 1957 and attended Albany State Teachers College and Moros-Spencer School of Business, Kingston. Her husband, who was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of 1957, enlisted in the Marine Corps in October, 1957. He is now stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., as a radio relay technician.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a blue-green two piece dress with black accessories.

The couple will reside at 201 Roosevelt Avenue, Jacksonville, N. C.

Home Extension Service News

Kosher Meat for New Yorkers

Nearly five million pounds of kosher meat are consumed each week by more than two million Jewish people who live in the metropolitan New York area, say Extension Specialists. About 87 per cent of the meat is beef, 8 per cent is lamb, and 5 per cent is veal. New York City is not only the world's largest market for kosher meat but also the richest because it caters predominantly to the U. S. Prime and U. S. Choice grades of meat. Of the limited amount of U. S. Prime grade meat produced, about one-half goes to the kosher market and New York City receives most of it.

Kosher meat shoppers, busy buying and preparing meat dishes for the approaching New Year holiday, will find that prices for many cuts are close to last year's. Beef cuts are nearly the same and some lamb cuts, like shoulder chops and neck, are a few cents less. But prices on all veal cuts jumped this year, owing to the short supply. Boneless shoulder, rib chops, and calves' liver are each ten cents more per pound than they were a year ago, according to the Extension specialists.

Cabbage Deserves Mention

Fresh early fall crop cabbage from Upstate New York farms is coming to market. While the current crop is below last year's and the average, cabbage remains a relatively low-cost vegetable. A serving of cabbage costs only a penny or two, according to Extension specialists.

Prime quality heads of cabbage should be solid and firm or fairly firm and heavy for their size. Soft or puffy heads, although edible, are usually of poorer quality than those that are hard and firm. Defects of cabbage are also easy to detect. Avoid burst heads or ones that show signs of yellowing.

Each pound of cabbage purchased will yield 8 servings of raw cabbage or 4 of the cooked. One pound of the shredded cabbage measures two quarts.

At the Markets

VEGETABLES: The shift in seasons brings a change among vegetables most abundant on local markets. According to Extension specialists the "durable" vegetables belong to the current best buy group.

He lists butternut and acorn squash, topped beets, parsnips, purple top turnips, Long Island potatoes, sweet potatoes, and medium-size onions. A few pumpkins of various sizes are available, with the small ones the more plentiful. Other vegetables to look for include cucumbers and carrots. Several types of cabbage are in season, with both the red and savoy in fairly adequate supply.

FRUITS: Inexpensive prices currently prevail for pears and prunes and for apples in an assortment of varieties, including McIntosh, Red Delicious, Cortland, Rhode Island Greening, Gravenstein, and Twenty-Ounce. Although cooler weather will help to brighten the coloring of apples, inexpensive prices currently prevail. Other fruits for the market basket include limes from Florida, lemons, Valencia oranges, grapes, pears, and prunes from California.

FISH AND SHELLFISH: Leading local fresh fish for the next two weeks include scup whiting, flounder, and fluke. Among frozen fish, except swordfish and cod to be in good supply. Shellfish in season include bay scallops, sea scallops, hard and soft clams and oysters. Supplies of bay scallops and oysters are lighter than last year, and so higher in price. In contrast supplies of sea scallops and clams are about the same level as a year ago.

MEAT AND POULTRY: Prices on both fresh and cured pork cuts should continue favorable, with marketings coming from a 12 per cent larger spring pig crop than a year ago. Lamb supplies are also up 2 per cent above a year ago and 10 per cent above average. Among poultry items, broiler fryers, stewing chickens, and small-size turkeys are abundant and reasonable in price.

TAILORING TECHNIQUES: Clothing leaders of the Ulster County Home Demonstration units will meet on September 29th, at the Municipal Auditorium in Kingston at 10 a. m. for a course in tailoring techniques. Miss Jean McEwen, clothing specialist from Cornell will instruct the leaders in the modern methods used in making a tailored garment.

COUNCIL MEETING: September 28, chairmen and vice chairmen representing the 45 home demonstration units in Ulster County will meet at the Plattkill Grange Hall. This initial council meeting of the 1959-1960 program year begins at 10 a. m. and will be presided over by Mrs. Charles Kenny of Walker Valley, vice chairman of the Council of Chairmen, assisted by Mrs. DeForest Wiles of Hurley, secretary of the council. Included in the program will be a discussion of the year's projects; unit officers will meet their executive committee sponsors. Plans for further council meetings and district achievement days will be made. 1959-60 council officers will be elected.

THE PROGRAM will be terminated by a luncheon attended by the past year's and present year's unit chairmen and vice chairmen; The Home Demonstration Department's Executive Committee; Mrs. Elizabeth Overbaugh, temporary assistant county home demonstration agent and Bettie Lee Eddred, home demonstration agent-at-large.

SOLO FLIGHTS: The first solo flights in United States Army planes were made at College Park, Md. in 1909. They were airborne for 3 minutes, 12 seconds each.

AMERICAN MENU

Family Meals Are Ties To Bind Us Closer Together

Succulent family dining at budget prices is made possible when serving roast young chicken; the protein's high, the cost low.

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor

Improved food preservation and distribution, the steady addition of new convenience foods in the markets — everything from goose to mousse — has given impetus to better family meals. Discovering new foods and new ways to prepare them is now a favorite American pastime.

Educators see this trend as a promise of strengthened family relations and greater emotional stability in American homes. At the Merrill-Palmer School in Detroit, internationally recognized for its work in child guidance, this trend has been noted.

Muriel G. Wagner, distinguished for her work in nutrition for children, stated "this return to pleasurable eating and more adequate food intake can strengthen family relationships. But no matter how 'square' meals are or how carefully they are planned to include the essential food groups, the family members profit little unless the food is eaten enjoyably. Over good food, family members can cultivate common interests and develop a feeling of 'oneness.' Well-planned meals, leisurely eaten, set the stage for conveying love, companionship and a feeling of belonging.

"Children learn about the world the people in it, its rules, and our place in that world through food," she continued. "From infancy on, the amount and kind of food we eat is determined by an interplay of hunger and appetite. Every child is born hungry. The kind of mental images he builds around getting food results in good or poor appetites. Good appetites are encouraged by pleasant experience with food. Poor appetites result from punishing, threatening, scolding and bribing over food. Many adult food dislikes, even dislikes of eating, can be traced to these tactics at the family dinner table."

Miss Wagner cautioned against forcing children to eat more than they want because a child's appetite, like an adult's, varies from meal to meal. As with grownups, they eat more one day, less another.

The school recommends that children eat with the family, even the high chair set. "Family meals give a child an opportunity to learn," she explained. "He tastes sweet foods and salty foods and crisp and soft foods. If the family likes tuna fish, but not salmon, the odds are that Johnny will learn to like tuna fish. Not only because it is served but because he learns by imitating others. If the family is interested in a variety of foods, the child tends to try new kinds. Children identify themselves with the loved parents or enjoyments the parent rejects or enjoys can determine what the child eats. Childhood experiences forecast food selections in later years. Good habits formed early in life withstand teen-aged food fads and jags.

"Meal preparation as well as the meal itself can be a family affair. Cooking can be a creative outlet for the entire family rather than a tedious chore for one. Remember last summer's barbecue? Why not encourage the man of the house into the kitchen to mix his own special salad dressing? Preschooler Susie will at least taste the 'lovely green broccoli' if she 'cooks it herself. Even cutting calories can be easier if it's a shared experience," she added.

Asked if the experienced faculty at the Merrill-Palmer school believe that better meals actually do build better families, Nutritionist Wagner replied "yes," and with conviction. "Good family meals served attractively in a pleasant, relaxed atmosphere, pay off in dividends of better mental and physical health for both children and adults, alike," she insisted. "In fact, happy family meals can be the tie that binds."

A Menu for the Whole Family The following family menu uses foods every member of the family can enjoy regardless of age. Also it is economical because broiler-fryer chickens provide high class protein at budget prices.

Menu: Tomato juice with lemon wedge; roast broiler-fryer chicken; cornflake crumb stuffing; green peas; hot cling peaches; enriched bread, butter or margarine; tossed green salad; butterscotch sundae; coffee, tea, milk.

Kingston High Gridders Overpower Port Jervis, 20-0

Arlington Scores 32-6 Decision Over Saugerties High

Maroon Side Dominates Play From the Start

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Completely dominating the action from the first whistle to the end of the tilt, Kingston High School's football team kept its unbeaten streak intact for the 25th straight time last night at Port Jervis by demolishing the home side, 20-0, in a DUSO League opener for both schools.

It was simply a rout. While the KHS players scored touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods, the Raiders, hampered by injuries to their two best players, center Doug Parsons and halfback Frankie Bell, were simply next to useless against a rock ribbed line. They never threatened and had control of the pigskin for only 39 plays during the entire contest.

Halfback Bob Keating scored for Bill Burke's gridders in the first period to start the season in good style. Fullback Bob Decker plunged for a TD in the third session, and halfback Richie Siedler uncorked a nifty 21-yard gallop in the fourth period. Quarterback Richie Miller passed to Terry Kalish for an extra point and Decker plunged for the other.

The locals received the opening kickoff and marched from the 32 to the Port Jervis 40 before stalling. However, on fourth down from that point, Yinnie Smodes was roughed up while attempting to punt and the Maroon was given a first down on the PJ 40. From that spot it took only nine plays to score a touchdown.

Decker, a promising star, made seven on the first play and Siedler made another yard. Then Decker bulled over tackle for a first down to the 29.

Siedler went nine around his own right and after taking a pitchout from Miller, a 15-yard penalty moved the pigskin back to the 32 but Keating picked up 10 yards with a slash at the center of the PJ line. Decker then carried for a first down to the ten.

From there it was Siedler for seven to the four and then Decker down to the one before Keating carried it off tackle for the score. Kingston was penalized five yards on the extra point attempt and Miller promptly fired a pass to Kalish for the point.

Long Gain Nullified
A nifty 41 yard scamper by Siedler midway in the second quarter was nullified when Kingston was called for illegal procedure. The locals then shot to the PJ 30 before Decker tumbled and lost the ball.

The home side took the second half kickoff and unfurled its only threat of the evening, marching from their 43 to the KHS 32 before losing the ball on downs. From there, the locals took over and marched to another touchdown.

Siedler, Decker and Keating each carried a share of the load with Siedler making the longest gain—a 15-yard gallop around end, Keating lugged the pigskin from the 13 to the 3 and then Decker plunged over for the score. The extra point try was not good as the ball was fumbled in the backfield.

Siedler Breaks Loose
The Maroon eleven marched to a third touchdown early in the fourth period, taking over on downs on the 41. This drive took only six plays and Siedler went the final 21 yards on some good broken field running. He got away from three would-be tacklers on the 15 and then went into the end zone untouched. Decker bulled his way in for the extra point.

The locals threatened just before the close of the contest but a pass was intercepted on the goal line by Tex Harding. He ran it to the eight and the tilt ended moments later.

Miami's New Offense Spanks Tulane, 26-7

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

You're a college football coach. Your team has gone through a miserable 2-8 season—the worst in the history of the school—scoring only 88 points in the process. Something must be done.

Andy Gustafson, University of Miami pilot, found himself in that predicament last winter. Mulling it all over, he decided to try a new offense. It had to be better than last year's.

He calls it a multiple offense and it got its first test Friday night against Tulane. It worked. Miami won, 26-7. The defeat was Tulane's second straight.

Bob Rosbaugh scored two of Miami's touchdowns and Frank Bouffard the other. But it was the sharp passing of Fran Curci that kept the Green Wave off balance. At one time he hit seven bullseyes in a row. One of his passes was a scoring flip to Rosbaugh.

In other top games, Southern California whipped Pitt, 23-0. George Washington turned back Boston University, 18-14 and Iowa State trimmed Denver 28-12.

Willie Wood got off a 31-yard field goal and Jim Conroy bulled over from the 1 for 10 Southern Cal points in the first quarter. That was all the Trojans needed. Most attention will be riveted today on Evanston, Ill., where Oklahoma takes on Northwestern in the TV game of the day.

This will be the opener for both teams. The Sooners, ranked No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters, are in bad shape as a result of a case of banquet food poisoning that struck down 12 players.

At best, Oklahoma did not figure to have a sincere against Northwestern, rated No. 10 in the AP poll and the dark horse in the Big Ten. Bud Wilkinson's operatives had been rated 6-point favorites. Now they are down to even money.

LSU Plays Tonight
LSU, defending national champion, plays Texas Christian in a night game in Baton Rouge, La. This one could be tough for the Bengals from the Bayou because the Horned Frogs are reputed to be big and mean and bent on grabbing the Southwest Conference flag.

Auburn, unbeaten in its past 24 games and LSU's No. 1 threat for the Southeastern Conference title, tackles Tennessee in a league game.

Mississippi, No. 4 this week, has a relatively easy task against the Bulldogs. There was no doubt the Porters were hurt by injuries to their two stars. Both Parsons, a rugged linebacker and Bell, a good defensive runner, were ALDUSO selections last season. Bell was in for only the first period and his bad leg acted up. Parsons had his arm in a cast and didn't even suit. A good crowd of Kingston rooters was in the stands and they had a lot to cheer about. The inexperienced of the KHS linemen was evident by the numerous penalties called by the officials. Most of them were for jumping the line of scrimmage before the ball was snapped. However, the forward wall was continually stopping Port Jervis backs, for loss-of-yardage and the Porters ended the evening with —21 yards on the ground. Bob Jenkins and company did a bang-up job. Kingston is idle this weekend and will play powerful New Rochelle on Friday, Oct. 9, at the Stadium.

Sawyers Fall Behind Early In First Half

Combining the running talents of Don Marchese and Les Bierman with the good right pitching arm of quarterback Frank Abbott, Fritz Jordan's Arlington High School gridders chalked up their second win of the young season by thumping Saugerties, 32-6, last night at the high school gridiron.

The visitors, who failed to win a game in seven attempts last season, put the kickoff in play on the 24 and raced downfield for a score. They went to the SHS 15 and were then penalized to the 34. From there Abbott passed to end Barry Ireland. He snagged the pigskin on the nine and ran over. Bierman was stopped on his extra point attempt.

The Sawyers started a drive of their own which carried from the 29 to the Arlington 20. But a pass was intercepted to squelch the bid. The visitors moved to the SHS 25 but Bob Francello intercepted a toss on the 13 and carried to the 41. From there Saugerties marched to the tying touchdown.

Russ Scores
John Nolan, making his first start, lugged to the AHS 41 in two plays. Russ Talmadge then took a pitchout, cut to the outside and galloped 41 yards to the end zone. Bob Whitaker's attempted placement was low.

From then on the game was all Arlington. The Maroon returned the kickoff to the 39 and on the first play, Marchese romped 61 yards to the goal line. Abbott then tossed to Rene Luik for the extra point.

The Sawyers missed a first down on the 44 just before halftime and the visitors scored their touchdown before the intermission. Runs by Bierman moved the ball into scoring territory and Abbott passed 32 yards to Luik for the score. It was 19-6 at halftime.

Tackle Dan McClay recovered a Saugerties fumble on the 24 early in the third stanza. Several plays later, Bill Laske circled end from the five. A pass play for the point failed.

Substitutes saw action for Arlington in the final period and they scored near the end when Carl Cooper plunged over from the two to climax a 30 yard drive. Ed Bahret added the point.

Regular quarterback Ted Olson sat out the game last night with an injury. Nolan played only one period before leaving the field with an injury. Pete Cotich has a bad leg and Bill Lezette a bad side. Coach Straub is hopeful the players will be at full strength for the Highland encounter next week.

Minneapolis 4, Fort Worth 2 (Minneapolis wins best-of-7 series 4-3).

Herman Boldrin raced 70 yards for a touchdown in four minutes left to enable Wappingers Falls to upset Hudson, 26-20, last night at the Columbia County field.

The loss was Hudson's first in 12 games over two seasons. The home side was shackled by 95 yards in penalties.

Boldrin also ran 80 yards for his team's first touchdown. Dave Clark scored one and Brian Benkoski passed to Larry Heinemann for the fourth TD for the Fallmen.

Jim Hughes, 5-5, 150-pound halfback who is the only returning veteran in the Hudson backfield, accounted for all three of his team's scores.

Hughes raced 23 yards for two TD's and dove two yards for the other. He also added an extra point. Jerry Gregory made it the other one.

 Melbourne—George Bracken, 135, Australia, outpointed David Oved, 133, Israel, 10.
 Sao Paulo, Brazil—Angel Bustos, 124 1/2, Argentina, knocked out Kiyoshi Miura, 126 1/2, Japan, 8.

Jimmy Sims finished eight seconds ahead of Middletown's John Krepick but the Middies had enough points to nip Kingston High School's Cross Country squad, 30-25, yesterday at the Orange County city. The veteran Middletown squad had a second, third, fifth, sixth and ninth to offset finishes of first, fourth, seventh, eighth and tenth by the locals.

Kingston, which captured the Section Nine meet last season and lost only one match, did not have the depth to match the home side, which featured three runners of last year's top five back in action.

Giant Pitchers Get Needed Rest Because of Rain

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"This rain is a real break—now our pitchers can rest," said Manager Bill Rigney, ignoring the possibility his San Francisco Giants may be out of the National League pennant race even before they take the field tonight.

The gray-haired field boss seemed relaxed for the first time in many weeks. He admitted he had his first good night's sleep in a long time.

"It's a strain on a club to hold a narrow first-place lead week after week," he said. "It's bound to tell."

A victory by the Los Angeles Dodgers today at Chicago would kill all Giant chances and put an end to feverish work at San Francisco's new Candlestick Park, which only a week ago seemed likely to be the scene of the World Series. A sudden five-game Giant skid made the past week a nightmare for San Francisco fans.

In any event, the Giants must sweep all three games to have a chance of a pennant tie.

Bowlers hitting 600 or better proved to be the rule rather than the exception in city bowling circles last night.

Bob Jones started the parade with a 263 middle effort around lines of 190-180 for a 633 blast in the Classic League.

Rose Schatzel had her first big night of the season with consistent efforts of 198-214-203-615 in the Ferraro Women's A Classic League. The queen was in the strike groove all night. Ed Norton leveled a 633 blast at the pins in the No-Can-Do circuit. He started with 164 and then had 253-303 for his night's work.

Carman Milano and Norm Niles put on a strike display in the Electrol League. Carman shot 211-178-229-618 and Norm blistered the maples for 192-206-210-608.

DEL PRITCHARD topped the Everybody's League hitting 582 sticks on games of 183-197-205. Others were Don Herdman 515, Bill Conlin 506, Al Dube 506, Art Parks 211-564, Ken Newell 501, John Howard 512, George Finch 529, Herb Houghtaling 507, Fred Zimmerman 563, Ralph Woolsey 505, Charles Coutant 200-508, Richard Drieser 203-554 and Scott Vining 531. Results: Dispatch 2, Production Control 1; Milling 3, Tool Room 0; Management 2, Turrets 1; Grinding 3, Assembly 0; Pro Lath 2, Tool Stores 1.

The slump of the San Francisco Giants had no effect on Knute Beichert's bowling in the No-Can-Do league. He rapped 172-206-211-589 for runner-up honors in the circuit. Walt Fatum had 537, Carl Beatty 528, Babe Maricle 500, Steve Colwin 505, Flip Felipe 210-200-585, Harold Stewart 531, Andy Petruski 506, Tracy Jordan 554, Jack Martin 534, Ed Myers 205-536 and Harold Baltz 202-500. ### Library, School's Fiscal Affairs Exam Completed

The examination of the fiscal affairs of Saugerties Public Library and Saugerties Central School District No. 1 has been completed by the State Department of Audit and Control, Albany, it was announced today.

According to a public notice published Friday, copies of the examination reports are on file in the office of Mrs. Margaret Marburger, clerk of the Board of Education and are part of the public record available for review by interested citizens.

A copy of the reports is also on file at the department's offices in Albany.

Game Club to Discuss Stand on Amendment

Saugerties Fish and Game Club will be asked to take a stand on the proposed constitutional amendment that would permit use of part of the forest preserve for a superhighway through the Adirondacks, at its meeting Monday 8 p. m. at Saugerties Municipal Building.

The proposed amendment will appear on the Nov. 3 elections ballot.

A provision in the State Constitution ruling that the forest preserve must be kept forever wild makes an amendment mandatory.

Conservationists have pointed out that an alternate route for the Albany to Champlain Valley through the Champlain Valley would be acceptable. No amendment is necessary for the alternate route as it does not infringe on forest preserve lands.

The new extended so-called deer season will also come under discussion.

School Issues Policy On Dental Care Time

Saugerties Central Schools have recently clarified its policy in the matter of releasing pupils from school for dental appointments.

Under this plan each pupil in the grades will advise his teacher of his need to be released to go to the dentist. The teacher in question will let the pupil know at what times it is best for him to be released with the least damage to his school study program.

In the high school (7-12) pupils are excused to go to the dentist during free periods.

156th Artillery Sponsors Hunter Safety Program

A planning meeting was held at the State Armory on Thursday evening with a committee of National Guardsmen and District Game Protector Bryan E. Burgen, of the State of New York Conservation Department, who is in charge of the Hunter Safety Program.

Details of the program were outlined by Burgen and tentative arrangements made for sponsorship of the local program by the National Guardsmen. The Battalion Adjutant Frank Fabbie, representing the commanding officer of the 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, offered the facilities of the local armory for the safety training course.

Major Arthur W. Fochsner, army advisor for the local units of the National Guard, Captain Andrew B. Grier, communications officer and Sergeant First Class William J. Ferguson, mess steward of Battery "A" of the battalion, all qualified instructors in small arms, have volunteered their services.

The NYS Conservation Department requires that all new hunters must have firearm safety instructions before a license can be issued. The course to be conducted at the armory will include marksmanship, safe handling of firearms, ammunition and laws affecting firearms. In general the promotion of public safety, law and order will be stressed.

The first course of instruction for the hunter safety training program will be conducted at the National Guard Armory on North Manor avenue, on Thursday evening, Oct. 1, at 7 p. m. The program is open to all new hunters between the ages of 14 and 21 years. A special invitation is extended to parents of prospective hunters to attend the sessions as spectators.

All interested young people are strongly urged to take advantage of this vitally important training program for the young sportsman.

IBM Executive Named Publicity Head for Scouts

John F. Schuehler of New Paltz, has been appointed publicity chairman of the Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts Fund Drive.

The drive, which begins Tuesday, Oct. 20, will provide operating funds in the 1960 fiscal year. It is conducted by the Rip Van Winkle Council of Boy Scouts independently of the activities of the Kingston Area Community Chest.

Schuehler is manager of public relations at the Kingston Plant of IBM's Federal Systems Division. He joined IBM at the Rochester plant in 1941. He has served as administrative assistant to the vice president and general manager of the Poughkeepsie plant.

In December, 1954, he was transferred to the Kingston plant as technical assistant to the general manager. He has served in his present position with IBM since September, 1956.

Schuehler is a member of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and the Wiltwyck Country Club and serves on the executive committee of the United Cerebral Palsy Unit of Ulster County, Inc.

He resides with his wife, Carolyn, and two-year-old twins, John and Mary, in New Paltz.

Succumbs at Dance

SCOTIA, N. Y. (AP)—A 14-year-old girl collapsed and died Friday night while dancing at a friend's birthday party.

She was Judith Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Crawford.

The cause of death was not determined immediately. Friends of the family indicated the girl may have suffered from a heart condition.

Will Ask Death For Carole Due To New Evidence

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The prosecution will ask the death penalty for Carole Treggoff because of new evidence in the slaying of her lover's wife.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred Wichello said the evidence indicates the 22-year-old divorcee plotted with Dr. Bernard Finch to have his wife killed. Barbara Finch, 33, was shot to death outside her West Covina home July 18. Wichello maintains that Dr. Finch, 41, shot his wife after the attempt to hire a killer failed.

The prosecutor told newsmen that a Minneapolis convict, Jack Cody said:

Dr. Finch and Miss Treggoff tried to hire him in Las Vegas, Nev., to kill Mrs. Finch. He told Dr. Finch that he had completed the job, and Miss Treggoff gave him $1,180. Dr. Finch learned his wife was still alive and demanded that Cody return to Los Angeles and go through with the job. Cody said he was drunk when he got on the plane, and after reaching Los Angeles, he immediately headed for Milwaukee.

The alleged plot came to light when a Las Vegas College student, Donald Sanford Williams, told police that Miss Treggoff asked him to introduce her to "two rough guys who can take care of somebody." Williams said he introduced her to Richard Keachie and Cody. Keachie, in jail in Las Vegas on a morals charge, corroborated the story.

'Roll With Rock' Placards Greet Governor in N. H.

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—"Let's Roll With Rock!" one poster said. Another proclaimed "A Full Nelson Will Hold The Nation."

Those were two of the placards displayed by University of New Hampshire students as New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller arrived by plane early today at Greiner Air Force Base, Manchester, on his way to a football weekend at his alma mater, Dartmouth College.

Some 200 persons, many of them women, braved the post-midnight September chill to greet the governor in a state where supporters have been urging his candidacy for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller, wearing a light trench coat and carrying his hat, shook hands all around and insisted to newsmen he would have no political announcements. He was here, he said, merely to see Dartmouth play Holy Cross at Hanover.

The governor spent the night at the Concord home of Dudley Orr, another Dartmouth alumnus.

He expected to call on Gov. Wesley Powell and hold a news conference before driving to Hanover.

Body of Woman Found

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of a young woman, apparently the victim of a sex killer, was found today in a vacant lot in Queens by a man taking an early morning stroll.

The man saw the body of the woman, about 25 or 30 years old, lying face up among the tall weeds and grass with her clothing torn and disarrayed. He ran to a nearby gas station whose attendant called police.

Police immediately surrounded the lot and began a search for clues to the murder and the identity of the woman.

Steam Pipe Blows Up

NEW YORK (AP)—A volcano-like explosion from a bursting high pressure underground steam pipe shot a geyser of stone and asphalt skyward Friday night in lower Manhattan. There were no injuries.

The flying debris smashed some windows and dented a half dozen parked cars.

Two Persons Hurt In Rt. 52 Crash

Two persons were injured in a two-car collision early this morning on Route 52 four-tenths of a mile west of the Dwaarkill road, town of Shawangunk.

Philip E. Hecht, 19, of Ellenville, was treated by a physician for abrasions of the left knee and a back injury and released.

James Conlon, 22, of Cornwall-on-Hudson, was treated for a compound fracture of the left elbow and taken to Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown.

Ellenville state police reported that Hecht, operating a 1951 sedan, was proceeding west, entering a left curve, when he saw the Conlon car, a 1954 sedan, approaching. He applied his brakes, the car swerving and the two vehicles colliding with their left front sides. Time of the accident was 2:05 a. m.

Napanoch Man Is Hurt Friday in Route 209 Mishap

Thomas Shamro, 43, of Napanoch, who was injured early Friday evening when his car left Route 209 about two-tenths of a mile north of Foordmore road, town of Wawarsing, was reported in fair condition today at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville.

Shamro suffered numerous contusions and abrasions of the head, neck and shoulders, fractured ribs and possible concussion.

Ellenville state police reported that he was proceeding south in a 1957 pickup truck when the vehicle left the highway on a sweeping left curve, traveling some distance along the shoulder, knocking down several guard rails, striking a culvert, continuing and striking a utility pole owned by the Colonial Hotel.

Shamro was thrown from the vehicle. Time of the mishap was 8:40 p. m.

Central Hudson was notified and dispatched a crew to repair the line.

Mauhs Opposes Forest Preserve Route for Road

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (AP)—Sharon J. Mauhs, former state conservation commissioner, says he's opposed to the proposed constitutional amendment that would clear the way for a superhighway to pass through the Adirondack forest preserve.

Mauhs said Friday night in a speech before the New York division of the Izaak Walton League of America that he favors instead the alternate route for the Albany to Canada highway through the Champlain Valley.

Mauhs said he had heeded recommendations of the Department of Public Works when he said he favored the forest preserve route as conservation commissioner. But he said he took a second look and returned to his original position favoring the Champlain Valley route.

A provision in the State Constitution stating that the preserve must be kept wild makes a constitutional amendment necessary. Voters will decide the issue at general elections Nov. 3.

A constitutional change is not necessary for the route through the Champlain Valley. The forest preserve is between Glens Falls and Keeseville.

Stock sales this week swelled to 16,011,469 shares from 12,222,297 a week ago and was the heaviest since the week ended July 11 when 18,719,665 shares were traded. Bond sales soared to $44,631,000 par value, highest since the week ended Jan. 19, 1946. This compared with $31,765,000 last week and $31,451,100 for the corresponding week in 1958.

A new housing bill was signed into law by President Eisenhower this week—and with it came hopes for a new boom in home construction. Almost as soon as the ink was dry, the Federal Housing Administration announced an increase from 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 per cent in the interest rate on FHA-insured mortgages—a rate more compatible with the 6 per cent or better some lenders are getting on conventional loans today.

The new law contains a variety of pump-priming measures intended to make more money available for construction. It also enables you to pay less cash down on a house financed with an FHA loan and to get a bigger mortgage.

Would the new bill spur another housing boom? Only time would tell. Some building industry leaders said nothing would help very much until tight money conditions loosened up, interest rates declined, and mortgages became easier to get. And from now through next spring, they said, interest rates are likely to rise still more and mortgages will be even harder to come by.

Police Pick Up 3 From Guzman Gang

NEW YORK (AP)—Bronx police Friday night picked up three youths who said they were members of the same gang as a youth fatally wounded on the steps of Morris High School last Monday.

Police found a zip gun and a stiletto-type homemade dagger on one of the three.

Sergeant George Nasdahl of the Youth Squad said the zip gun and dagger were found on Jesus Guzman, 21 years old, of The Bronx. He is no relation to the youth killed Monday, John Guzman, 17. Nasdahl said the three youths told him they were members of the Valiant Crews. The slain Guzman youth also was a member.

DST Ends Sunday For Some: State Holds Fast Time

NEW YORK (AP)—Daylight saving time will end Sunday in a crazy-quilt pattern of communities across the nation.

But in New York, New England and throughout most of the Middle Atlantic states it will continue until the last Sunday in October.

At 2 a. m. local time clocks will be moved back an hour in California, Nevada, Wisconsin, in parts of Indiana, Pennsylvania and northeastern Ohio, and the eastern part of West Virginia.

In addition to the Eastern Seaboard states, those that have extended daylight time include Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky.

Scattered communities in Indiana and Nebraska have adopted daylight time the year 'round.

Pilot Suspended 60 Days for His Nap in Cockpit

WASHINGTON (AP)—An airline pilot has been suspended for 60 days for taking a nap in the cockpit of his plane on a flight from Bermuda to New York.

He is Pan American World Airways Capt. Carl A. Skiles of Woodbury, N. Y.

The federal aviation agency said Friday one of its inspectors was in the cockpit of the DC6B making a routine check during the flight.

The inspector said when the plane was an hour out of Bermuda Skiles leaned back in his seat put a foot up on the radar scope and closed his eyes. He kept them closed for 30 minutes, the inspector said, while the co-pilot flew the plane.

After a hearing, Skiles was found to have committed a safety violation by failure to remain at the controls. Both pilot and co-pilot are required to maintain constant vigilance.

Skiles may fly as a co-pilot, but not a pilot, during his suspension.
